'Families First' plan may get ax

Funding cut for needy children's resource

BY SHANNON JENKINS
Staff Writer

As invitations to the grand opening of the Hancock County Families First Resource Center arrived in mailboxes on Monday, officials there received word that the center's very existence may be in jeopardy.

The fate of Families First Resource Center (FFRC), a statewide program offered by the Center for Prevention of Child Abuse, appears shaky after the Mississippi Department of Human Services (DHS) announced budget cuts due to a $20.7 million budget deficit. The new Hancock County FFRC is one of 34 in the state. Craig Grisoli, director for development with the Center for Prevention of Child Abuse, said DHS informed

Investigators say Price 'vanished' without a trace

BY ELLIS C. CUEVAS
Publisher Emeritus

Diamondhead resident Floyd Price, 70, seems to have just "vanished," according to Hancock County Sheriff's Chief Investigator Kenny Hurt.

Price was last scene on the night of Feb. 4, according to an earlier report by Investigator Tom Roan.

Roan, who is assisting investigator André Fizer on the missing person's case said, "We have been to many friends and acquaintances of Mr. Price and the investigation is still on-going."

On Thursday Hurt said, "We are still handling the case as a missing person. This will not change unless something else develops. Our department is still actively seeking the whereabouts of Mr. Price."

Price has been a resident of a condo at Diamondhead

Special Boat Team 22 in thick of Iraqi War efforts

BY FRANK FISHER
Associated Press Writer

Just like the "Brown Water Navy" that plied the muddy backwaters of Southeast Asia, with young skippers like John Kerry, an elite boat unit from Mississippi quietly added its unique blend of speed and punch to the military arsenal in Iraq.

Special Boat Team 22 was busy during the six months it patrolled southern Iraq's waterways during the war, the largest use of the Navy in river combat operations since Vietnam. Missions included boarding ships to look for weapons, setting up blockades, searching for the enemy and transporting Navy SEALs and British and Polish troops.

Nobody aboard the unit's four heavily armed speedboats was hurt, despite one crewmember describing their job as "the spear-point" for special operations in southern Iraq.

Even now, months after the war ended, much of what these men did remains classified.

Their presence, and the operations that they were conducting on the river definitely inhibited the bad guys, made them think twice or prevented them from doing any damage to American servicemen," said Master Chief Vinnie Dauro, a SEAL who is SBT-22's top enlisted man and a Long Beach native.

SBT-22, based at NASA's rocket motor testing site along the Pearl River near Picayune, is the U.S. military's only special operations outfit dedicated to riverine warfare. It is heir to a proud fighting tradition that harks back to the patrol vessels known as PBRs and Swift boats used by the Navy during in Vietnam and popularized in Francis Ford Coppola's movie, "Apocalypse Now."

Today's boats are faster and pack a bigger punch. Many of the sailors who run them weren't even born when Kerry, then a young lieutenant, won a Silver Star for "bravery" in the Mekong Delta. But some things haven't changed.

"I learned that when you're in a wartime environment, it doesn't matter if you're cold, hungry or tired, you're there to complete the mission from start to end," said Petty Officer 2nd Class Mike Strauss, of Boulder City, Nev.

It wasn't unusual for the special warfare combat crewmembers, or SWCCS, to spend days at a time on their camouflage boats, eating military rations and catching some sleep on the hard deck whenever they could.

"If it rained, you got a shower," Strauss laughed.

The countryside on each side of them was brown, arid, with lots of open space, low grasses and few trees. The armor-plated boats would cruise by opulent mansions and bullet-riddled shanty towns. Donkeys carrying people and cargo were commonplace along the muddy, polluted river.

"Base camp," where the sailors would try to relax a while, was a rusted, rat-infested oil barge.

"That's where we slept when we rotated patrols," said Petty Officer 1st Class Lee Teters, of Duncan, Okla. "But other than that, we were always on the boat."

Out on the water, danger was never out of mind. The patrol craft, capable of hitting 35 knots fully loaded, passed ships and wrecks that could shelter enemy soldiers or be rigged with explosives. Clearing them was both time-consuming and nerve-racking.

"We would pass derelicts all the time, and you see the same thing every day, but in the back of your mind, you always knew if there were people living on that boat, they might be waving to you one day, but the next day, they might be pointing something at you," said Strauss. "You have to be in that mindset."

There was always the uncertainty of what lay around the next river bend. Although the crews would launch small, remote-controlled planes with video cameras that relayed images back, the men had to stay alert because trouble could come when they least expected it.

"Like for myself, granted, I didn't want to get shot or killed," said Chief Petty Officer Freddy Wienbeck, of Aiken, S.C. "But, I didn't want that man next to me shot or killed either. So, that kept me at a higher level of readiness."

Reflecting the self-confidence typical of special forces, Watson pointed out his 32-foot boat bristled with weapons, from 50-caliber machine guns and grenade launchers to automatic rifles. While he and his comrades might have looked like sitting ducks, "I feel sorry for the person who opens up on us," he said.

The men of SBT-22 returned home to a country debating whether the war was worth it. Strauss is sure it was. "I'd say about 90 percent of the people over there we saw were very thankful that we were there," he said. "Because when we got there, you could tell there was a lot of isolation, people weren't doing their daily life, they couldn't go out there and fish."

"But after we got there, people could go out and feed their families and feed their children," Strauss said.

Watson, who had an uncle who served with Navy riverboats in Vietnam, recalled when his unit started patrolling Iraq's rivers, he only saw about two or three fishing boats.

"By the time we left, we could hardly patrol because there were so many people back out on the river starting their lives over again," Watson said.

Because they are the only unit of their kind, SBT-22 couldn't stay in Iraq for long. The officers and enlisted men like to boast they have a "worldwide mission" wherever there are rivers and "bad guys."

The Iraqi War also was an important test for riverine special warfare. According to SBT-22, the superior performance of the boats convinced some military brass they still have a role to play decades after Vietnam.

Krewe of Blarney Halfast Walkin' Klub rolls Sunday

THE SEA COAST ECHO
The Krewe of Blarney Halfast Walkin' Klub will celebrate its 10th Anniversary St. Patrick's Celebration and parade today at 2 p.m. at Scenic Drive in Pass Christian.

Grand Marshal for the event will be John McAdam Harrison County Chancery Court Clerk. Honorary Marshal: Gayle Parker - Harrison County Circuit Court Clerk Colleen - Jeanne Pitre - Senior Student at Our Lady Academy.

The parade begins assembling at 1 p.m. and "steps out" on Scenic Drive from Memorial Park to Miramar at 2 p.m.

Mayors and Aldermen of the cities of Pass Christian and Long Beach, Past Grand Marshals, and the Krewe of Blarney Kaptains form the core of the VIP Group.

This parade commemorates the first St. Paddy's Day Parade which was formed in 1989, when, in that year the "Floats" marshaled at the Pass and proceeded down Second Street following the Railroad to Jeff Davis in Long Beach, and returned on Highway 90 back to the Pass.

The present-day parade was reinstated in 1995, with the frivolity of a family structured hometown atmosphere with VIPs and contingent Klans doing their "Walkin' and Struttin'" for good old St. Pat.

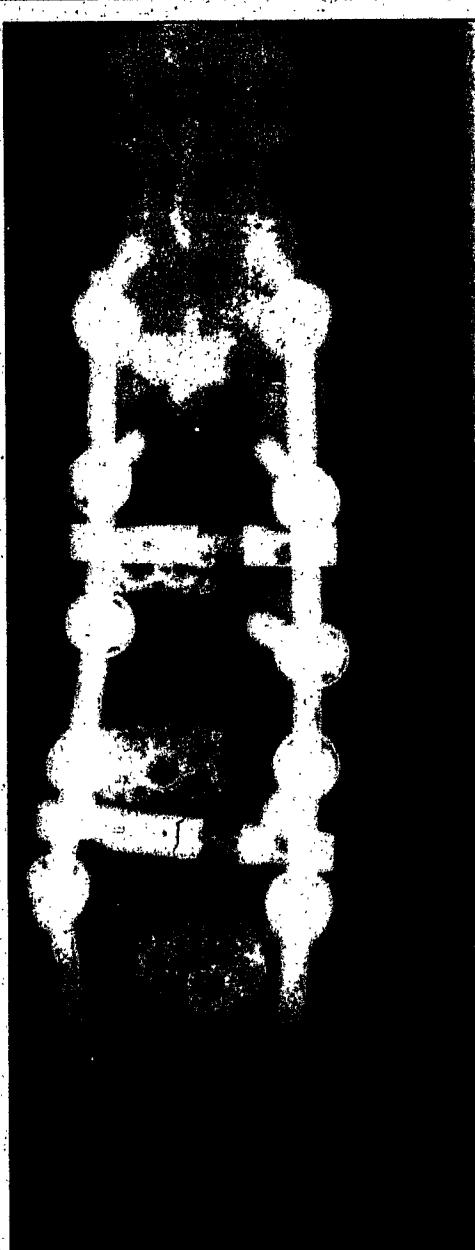

Parade Route: On Scenic Drive -

Start up Rally: Memorial Park at Fleitas Avenue, VIP's at the Palace (former VFW Hall)

Toasting Stops: Russell's Shell Station, Historical Society, City Hall reviewing stands, and at Miramar Nursing Home.

Wined Up Rally: "Tigre's Restaurant Patio" for Corn Beef, Cabbage, Green Beer.

At City Hall Reviewing Stands, the Special Olympics (approximately 60 youths with Downs Syndrome) are greeted and they join the parade procession to Miramar Nursing Lodge with their own Grand Marshal, and ending at the Harbor Bait Shop for corn-beef, cabbage, green beer, and dancing.

BSLLT, The Arts planning joint gala

THE SEA COAST ECHO
Bay St. Louis Little Theatre and The Arts, Hancock County have partnered to work on a Gala that promises to have something for everyone.

The original idea for the highlight auction of the Gala was developed when over 100 updated seats were donated to the theatre when a movie theater in New Orleans was demolished.

The removed vintage chairs were just too unique to let an artistic opportunity slip by, so the idea of taking the playlist from the past 58 years and gathering 25 artist to each take a chair and create an object of art that reflected a selected plays theme was formed.

The vintage chairs are in need of some refurbishing before going to their artist and that task has been started by John Harter and Warren Scott Haun.

The seats have wooden veneer backs and upholstery seats which would provide a "canvas" for multiple art venues (quilting, carving, decoupage, painting, tile, and etc.).

The chairs will be signed and numbered by the artist, and offered at auction during the Gala with the proceeds to benefit both the BSLLT renovation campaign and The Arts, Hancock County. Delivery and pick-up from the artist's location will be provided.

The gala is scheduled for June. For more information about the chairs contact Claire Haun at 228-463-9793 or e-mail HAUN1@aol.com.

Heart box collection on display at Kiln Library

Ever thought of starting a collection of something? Well, here's an idea. Ruth Robinson of Kiln started collecting heart boxes about five years ago, and now has more than 50 in her collection. They are currently on display at the Kiln Public Library through the month of March.

Robinson's first box was a crystal glass heart. She purchased it as a Valentine's gift for her oldest granddaughter, and then, since she has three more granddaughters, began looking for more.

The heart boxes are made of everything from silver and pottery to china and crystal. Some are even made of sea shells and paper mache.

More information is available by calling the Kiln Library at 255-1724.

Shakespeare is topic of Great Books discussion

THE SEA COAST ECHO
"Othello" by William Shakespeare is the topic of discussion at the Great Books Discussion Group meeting on Wednesday, March 17, at 7 p.m. in the Seal Room of the Bay St. Louis-Hancock County Library.

The selection is from Introducing the Great Books First Series. Several copies are available for checkout at the Bay St. Louis-Hancock County Library.

group meets every other Wednesday at 7 p.m.

The Great Books Foundation was established in 1947 by University of Chicago Chancellor Robert Maynard Hutchins. Its mission is to provide people of all ages, backgrounds and walks of life with the opportunity to read, discuss and understand outstanding works of literature.

Today, more than 20,000 adults are members of Great Books discussion groups, and nearly one million students participate in Junior Great Books groups for grades kindergarten through 12.

Anyone is welcome to attend the meetings. The only requirement is that you read the selection before the meeting. For information, call Jamie Elston at 467-5282.

Cuevas' Quotes

by Ellis C. Cuevas
Publisher Emeritus

Both Coast Electric and Mississippi Power companies are lighting up the highway with their respective blooming pear trees.

This past winter must have been a good one, because the trees appear to be completely covered by flowers.

Not only the pear trees are blooming, but many others are also in the area. It will not be too long before azaleas will be in full bloom too.

The past several days have been very nice for folks just to drive around the area and observe the beauty of nature.

If you haven't driven around, you may want to do so soon.

The Hancock County Chamber of Commerce's March Business After Hours is scheduled for Thursday, March 18, 5 to 7 p.m.

It will be a block party hosted on Main Street from Second to Toulme Streets.

Sponsors include: Charbonnet and Charbonnet, Pest Control Specialists, Southern Title, The Checkered Board, The Kid Company and The Sycamore House.

Special entertainment will be by Class Distinction and Connie, Mary and Sandra are back.

I have been told there will be lots of food and beverages at each merchant's location in addition to door prizes.

Be sure to take along several business cards, you may be a winner.

This should be one of the larger After Hours this year, so there will be many opportunities to make new and renew old acquaintances. I hope to see you Thursday evening.

The annual Mississippi Gulf Coast Spring Pilgrimage is scheduled March 26 through April 3, 2004.

This is a time when folks from across the county come and visit the coastal counties of Mississippi.

On an annual basis, The Hancock County Chamber of Commerce's Beautification Committee urges everyone to do cleanup of their properties for this big influx of folks.

Litter has been an eye sore spot in this county ever since I can remember. Folks just do not seem to think twice about throwing litter from their vehicle, or letting it fly from the back of a pickup truck.

A good side of this on the other hand is the fact that more and more folks are becoming concerned about our litter problems and this is good.

It is hoped that every resident will be a good citizen and make sure there is not litter in their neighborhood.

The chamber's beautification committee had a slogan around 1990 that said, "Litter Free by '93," well '93 has come and gone, and we still have a litter problem.

Thanks to everyone who realize they can make a difference, and welcome aboard to those who also want to make a difference.

Supporting Business

I was recently honored to receive the "Spirit of Enterprise Award," given to business-friendly Senators and Congressmen by the non-partisan U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

As your Senator, I've been humbled to receive many plaques and certificates through the years, but this recognition is important because it's not about me at all; it's really about our state.

I've made a commitment to help Mississippi create and retain jobs, but I've learned that to do this right, I must be attuned to the needs of small and large businesses. Contrary to what you're going to hear from some this election year, it's business that creates jobs, not government. Our economy is moving, but it will take not only a spirit of enterprise, but a spirit of cooperation between public and private leaders to bring Mississippians more opportunities.

In recent weeks, I met with county and municipal leaders from 30 Mississippi communities.

Virtually all the local projects for which they sought federal assistance related to economic development and job creation - projects designed to make their communities more attractive to businesses.

It's clear that jobs are a top number one in our state, and because of Presidential politics, we're going to hear a lot more about jobs nationally through November. We will hear some folks say America is losing jobs and our economy is faltering, while others will say America is actually

Echo always supports area schools

Dear Mr. Ponder,
I feel compelled to write in response to the "suggestion" by Superintendent Stasny that the Sea Coast Echo was remiss in publishing articles submitted by them this past year.

I cannot speak for them, but I can attest to the fact that over the past eight years that I have submitted press releases concerning Hancock County Schools, the Echo has published every article. Before I volunteered as public relations for certain county schools, I helped Bay Catholic students write a monthly newsletter from the students' perspective about BCE events and those were also published.

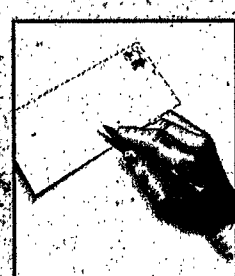

The Echo has also visited our schools on numerous occasions to cover big stories. Maybe the Echo is too busy covering our stories to have time for Bay-Waveland? or what's more likely is that they need to check their facts. Nevertheless, I appreciate our community's newspaper!

Sincerely,
Lydia K. Jelinski

Bush's 9-11 campaign is noble and justified

Editor's note: This letter is a reply to an earlier letter to the editor by Paul Stewart.

Dear editor:
According to Mr. Stewart we are to stand up and applaud when Democrat Presidents rise to the challenge of their office and stomp Republican President's for doing the same thing.

When Franklin Roosevelt ran for his third-term (during World War II) he told the American people that it was critical that he be re-elected because we were at war.

The American people that we had been attacked, were in a state of war, and that it was "a day that will live in infamy." Pres. Bush informed us that we had been attacked, were in a state of war, and that we were going after the terrorists.

It is always ordinary citizens whose courage, sweat, blood and sacrifice make it possible to win wars declared by our President's and Congress! Did Pres. Bush declare a state of gaining jobs and our economy is recovering. To get past the politics, I try to look at things objectively, not through blind partisan goggles, but from the perspective of Mississippians and our own state's economic situation. If you look at the facts, Mississippi's economy is indeed moving in a positive direction.

Just during the last two months, three major companies have chosen to locate in our state, creating hundreds of new jobs. Two of these companies are in the Mississippi Delta, a region which clearly needs these opportunities. These two facilities will manufacture automotive parts as part of the growing number of automotive suppliers which have come to Mississippi, since Nissan Motor Company opened its huge Canton manufacturing plant. A few people criticized former Governor Ronnie Musgrove, myself and the Mississippi legislature for working so closely with Nissan to secure this project, but with so many jobs created in one of our nation's poorest regions, I think the results of cooperation with business are clear.

Our most recent sign of progress came last week, when Federal Express announced that it would place a major distribution hub in DeSoto County, just minutes away from its world headquarters in Memphis. This is a project that I and other elected officials began courting more than a year ago. We understand that different regions of Mississippi have different strengths.

The Memphis area is already a warehousing and distribution center, and DeSoto County is one of the most desirable counties in the Southeast for both residential and business development. This center is a natural fit that will certainly play a pivotal role in North Mississippi's economy for years to come.

Of course, some people in government, in the press and in the academic world continue to cast the term "business friendly" in a negative light.

They apparently haven't come to understand the inseparable, mutually-exclusive relationship between good public policy and good jobs.

They don't seem to grasp that what is good for business is good for jobs.

What is good jobs is good for people.

Jobs are not the creation of government, but government officials can indeed help create and save jobs by working with business. That's what the Spirit of Enterprise Award is about. Perhaps it's better named the "Spirit of Cooperation" award. Being a cooperative emergency, which allowed both money and people to respond, in New York, the Pentagon and Pennsylvania? Of course the answer is yes, and like Pres. Roosevelt, he did his job, and Roosevelt ran on his record and Pres. Bush is running on his.

There is a double standard being used by many people that is reprehensible. There is a demand that Pres. Bush be called to account for what he did or didn't do during the Vietnam War but Sen. Kerry is not to be questioned about what he did or didn't do during the Vietnam War (we should forget about all that, after all -- it was more than 30 years ago, Kerry's supporters say). Pres. Bush is not to run on his record -- where was he and what did he do on 9-11 and after, while Sen. Kerry is not to be questioned about his critical votes regarding this war.

Mr. Stewart, you make me wonder when in one paragraph you revere two Democratic Presidents and given them credit, then in your last paragraph say that is the American people who should get credit not who is in the White House. Oh dear, I'm sorry, you just can't have it both ways. You may not like President Bush but you could be an upstanding citizen and be fair.

Sincerely,
Virginia Langen

Bay falls in state finals 76-60

BY JOSEPH W. GEX, II
Staff Writer

The Bay High Lady Tigers (29-7) were battered by the Northeast Jones Lady Tigers (32-3) in the girls 4A state title game 76-60 on Friday.

Bay High made its third consecutive trip to the title game; however, turnovers and a smoking offensive production by Northeast Jones hampered Bay High.

It seemed as though everything that Northeast Jones put up went in.

Along with turnovers, a lack of rebounding, and foul trouble all hurt Bay High's chances down the stretch. The Lady Tigers had three starters foul out late in the fourth period when Bay High had cut the lead to 10 points.

Bay High head coach Debbie Triplett said, "Northeast Jones came to play tonight. They shot the ball very well and outplayed us in every facet of the game."

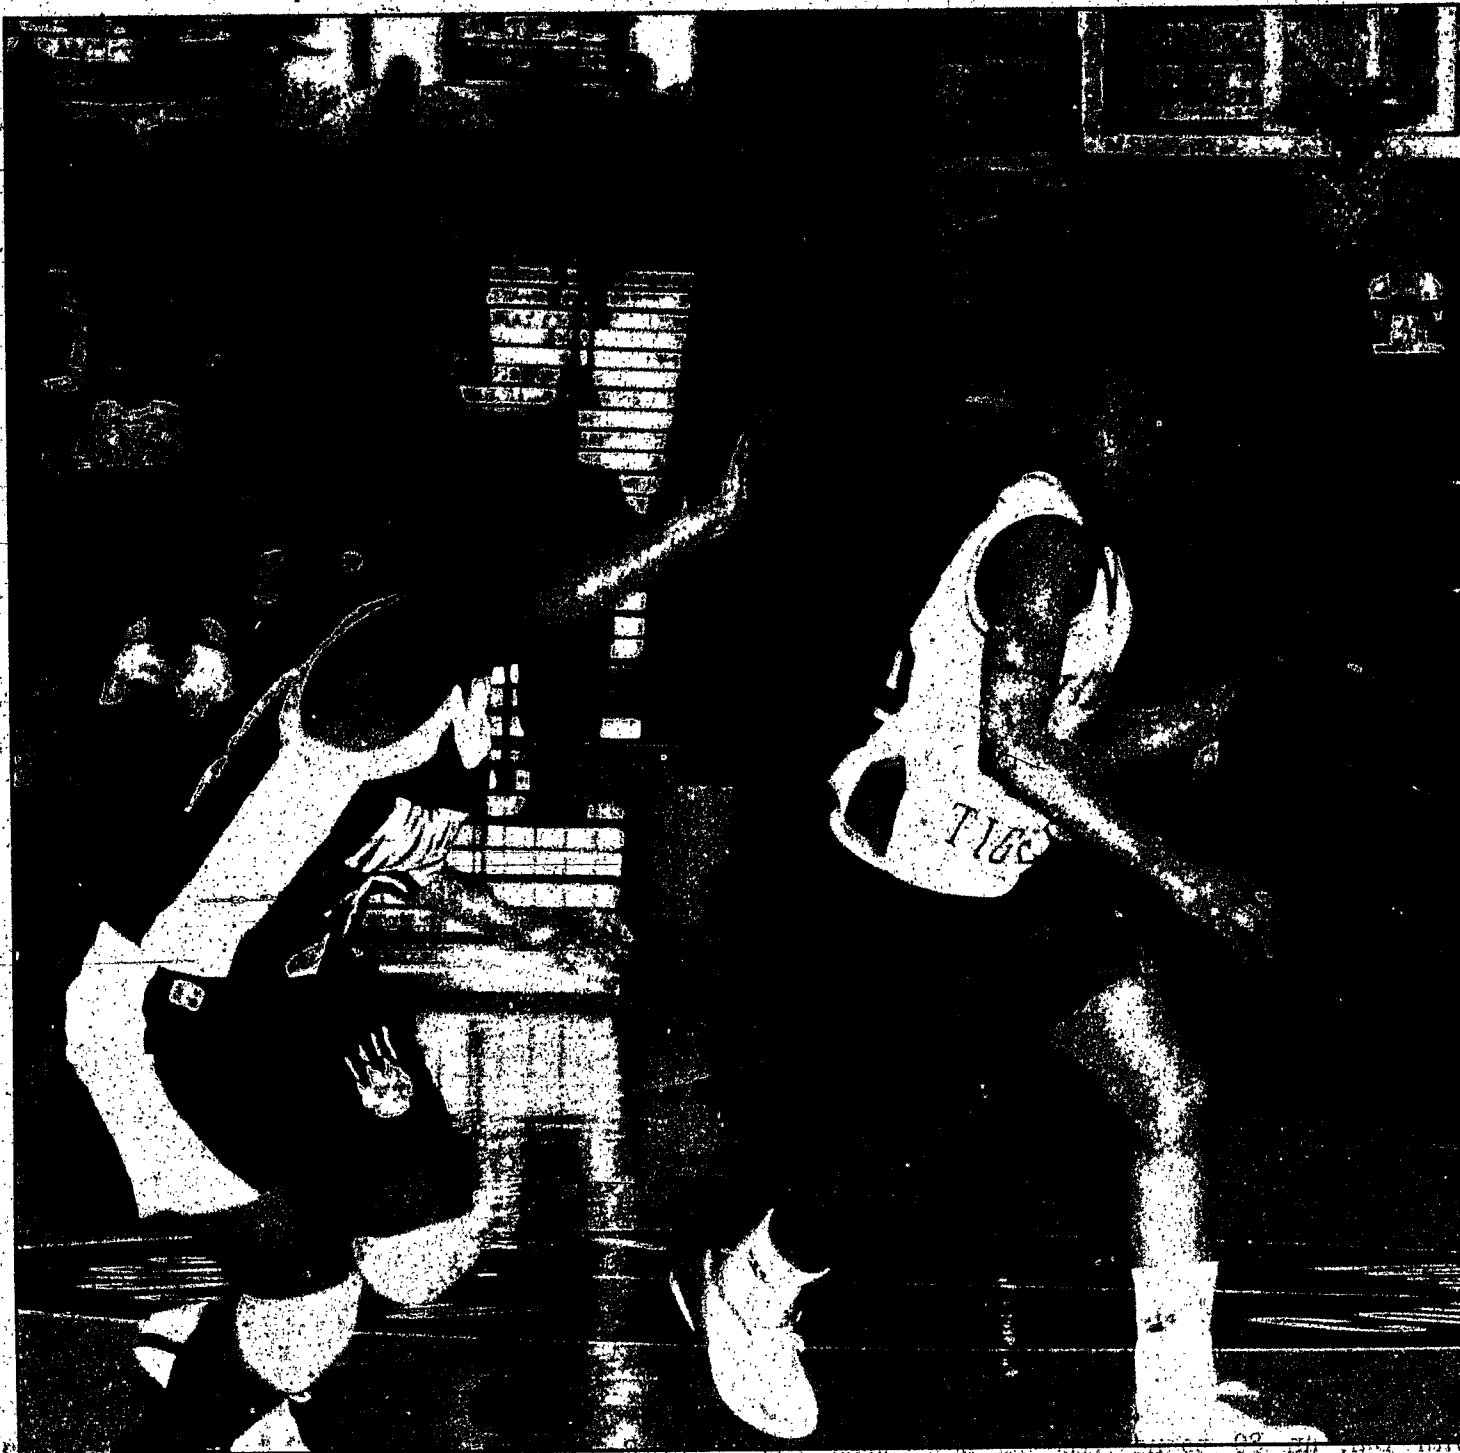

They are a very athletic team with good team quickness. We struggled with turnovers and did not rebound well against them. There were a few times where I thought we could make a run at them, but we just couldn't break the 10-point barrier.

Bay High opened the game with the first basket by Destiny Porter to go up 2-0; however, that would be the last lead for the Lady Tigers.

Northeast Jones ripped off nine points to go up 11-2 by the 5:19 mark of the first period. Kendra Reed stopped the bleeding with four points to make the score 11-6.

Kendra Reed's bucket in the lane with 1:12 left in the opening period brought Bay High to within a basket at 15-13. That would be as close as Bay High would get the rest of the game. The first period ended with Northeast Jones ahead 20-13.

Taphne Jackson set the tempo for the second period for Northeast Jones with a three pointer followed by a basket from Kim Lewis and Felicia Thomas, Bay High's only senior player, takes the ball on the way to a three-pointer Friday evening against the Northeast Jones Lady Tigers during the state title game.

Northeast Jones was up 25-13.

Kendra Reed scored to stop the run with 6:29 left in the half to make the tally 25-15. Reed scored 17 of her game high 25 points in the first half.

It seemed as though everything that Northeast Jones put went in. They answered back with a three-pointer from Jessica McKenzie to push the score back to 28-15.

Bay High was not able to break the 10-point barrier the remainder of the second period and the score at intermission was 46-30.

It was much of the same to start the third period as Northeast Jones scored seven unanswered points to open the second half and go up 53-30 by the 4:15 mark.

Once again, Reed stopped the bleeding with a bucket at the 4:00 mark to make the score 53-32.

The Lady Tigers scored eight more points in the period to make the score 58-40 after three periods.

The Lady Tigers made two runs at Northeast Jones in the fourth period - a 6-0 run and a 9-0 run. The 6-0 run was a 40 second run that started with a three-pointer from Felicia Thomas at the 6:35 mark. The run pulled the Lady Tigers to 64-49. The 9-0 run was sparked by Kendra Reed's bucket with 4:41 remaining.

When the run ended, the Lady Tigers were down 68-58 with 3:10 remaining; however, there just wasn't enough gas in the tank as Bay High scored just one basket during the final three minutes.

In the final three minutes of play, Kendra Reed, Crystal Skretching, and Felicia Thomas all fouled out for Bay High.

Kendra Reed led all scorers with 25 points and 7 rebounds. Destiny Porter added 19 points and 8 rebounds in the losing effort. Taphne Jackson scored 24 points and Jessica McKenzie added 20 points for Northeast Jones.

If there is any consolation to the loss, it is the fact the Bay High loses only one senior - Felicia Thomas. The Lady Tigers will return junior Dandy Dozen, pick Kendra Reed who averaged 24 points in the state tournament, 5-11 center Destiny Porter, junior guard Crystal Skretching, and freshman guard Tamara Reed from the starting lineup.

Thomas stated, "I will miss my teammates and the fun times that we have had. There have been some schools that have shown an interest in me for basketball but I have not decided what the next step is. Coach Debbie Triplett has been wonderful and has taught me everything I know about the game. I will continue to practice with the team until I graduate and I wish them all the best next season."

Triplett and the rest of the team will miss the spark that the lone senior provided. Triplett stated, "This is a tough way to go out. We will miss her quickness and spark that she provided for us."

Junior forward Kendra Reed looked to the future as she meandered from the locker room in the bowels of the Mississippi Coliseum. "Everything seemed to fall for Northeast Jones tonight. They played very hard. We know what we need to do and focus on to get back her next season. We want to get back up here and win that gold ball."

The 2004 Lady Tigers made another memorable run to the state title game.

If memory serves correctly, the Lady Tigers started the season 1-3. They finished 29-7. The Lady Tigers gave fans a lot to cheer about in 2004.

However, they realize that they have unfinished business in Jackson. With four returning starters who knows what lofty accomplishments await the Lady Tigers in 2005. However, one thing is for sure, they aren't resting and waiting to find out.

Congratulations, Bay High Lady Tigers on a memorable season!

Hancock charges to state 5A title game

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II
Staff Writer

The Lady Hawks of Hancock have erased the monkey that has been hanging on their back the last two years. The #1 seed from the South propelled its way into the 5A state title game after a 10-day layoff with a 50-37 win over the Clinton Lady Arrows on Wednesday.

The win was spurred by a 20-point performance from Brooke Necaise and stifling team defense by the Lady Hawks. For the past two seasons, the Lady Hawks have made an early exit from the state tournament at the hands of Jackson Murrah. Now, Hancock will play in their first state title game since winning the gold ball in 1980. And, for an added incentive, the Lady Hawks will play Jackson Murrah for the state title.

Hancock (28-4) was behind Clinton only twice in the first period. Ashley Boehnel nailed a three-pointer with about 4:15 left in the first period to erase the Clinton lead for good. The Lady Arrows would not come closer than four points late in the third quarter.

The first quarter ended with Hancock nursing a one-point lead. However, the Lady Hawks increased that lead to 23-15 by half-time. The Lady Hawks smothering defense held the Lady Arrows to just 4 points in the second period.

Hancock head coach Pam Slayton stated, "We played great defense tonight. We were a little iffy on offense. We did not seem to have the same control on offense as we did in the South State tournament. Offensively, we did what we needed to do to win the game."

In the second half, the Lady Hawks did not relinquish the lead nor the momentum as they cruised to the win and a date with the state title game.

Brooke Necaise scored 20 points to lead all scorers and Ashley Boehnel added 11 points in the win.

The Lady Hawks played Diamond Rogers and Jackson Murrah on Saturday. Scoring and game details will be provided in the Thursday edition of the newspaper.

Bay & SSC get division wins

Bay High and South State College (SSC) both secured division wins in their respective sports. The game was decided by a narrow margin, with Bay High emerging victorious. The victory was a significant moment for the team, as they had been struggling in previous games. The win was attributed to strong teamwork and strategic plays by the players. The game was held at a local arena, and the atmosphere was electric. The crowd was in high spirits, cheering for their favorite team. The win was a testament to the hard work and dedication of the players and their coaches. The team is looking forward to continuing their success in the upcoming season.

Southern Regional OK plan to seek $3.4M loan

BY BENNIE SHALLBETTER
Staff Writer

The Southern Regional Wastewater Management District Board of Directors approved a resolution to secure a $3.4 million dollar low interest loan from the Mississippi Development Bank on Monday. The loan will be used to fund wastewater projects to serve Pearllington and Kiln.

Currently the district is in the planning stages to build an interim package treatment plant to serve future customers in West Hancock County. As soon as the district decides on a location for the plant, construction can begin, hopefully this summer.

Possible sites for the plant include a location near the old truck scales on Hwy. 90 or a site at Port Bienville.

The site would later become the location of a permanent plant. Work on the first two phases of the Pearllington collection system should get underway this summer or early fall and take about a year to complete. Once construction begins on the interim plant the project should take about six months to complete.

The county is fast approaching a deadline to provide wastewater treatment to growing areas. The Hancock County Water and Sewer District has customers waiting for their next collection project, which has been put on hold until treatment can be provided by the Southern Regional District.

New development in both the cities and the county are threatening to put a burden on existing treatment options and so construction of new plants is a top priority for the county. Without added treatment options, the county could be facing a moratorium on new development. At a recent meeting at the Gulf of Mexico Program Office acting director Bryan Griffith advised county officials to move quickly to solve the problem before that possibility becomes a reality.

Griffith told officials that they might have to take a courageous step forward to get a handle on the growing problem of wastewater treatment. Once the customer base is in place, even without grant dollars to help fray costs, treatment could be provided at a reasonable rate, Griffith said, especially with interest rates at an all time low.

In other business:

• The board voted to refinance 1993 bonds. The this will save the district about $30,000 a year in interest payments and reduce the final amount of payback. The original bond amount was $4.4 million and used for upgrades at the plant. The bond was refinanced for $2.8 million. The board also voted to pay off a 1992 bond. Final payment would have been made in May.

• The district is expected to go out for bids for the digester project by June. A draft of designs and specs will be complete in mid-April, said Brown and Mitchell engineer Harry Griffith. After a two month bidding process, the job itself should take about six months to complete. The new digesters will boost capacity for sludge treatment.

Families -- funds cut center officials on March 8 that Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF) funds had been cut. FFRC thrived on the TANF funds to provide various programs for families.

The Hancock County FFRC programs include "Welcome Baby," a program for first-time mothers; "High Risk Youth/Teen Mentor," a program for youths identified as at risk for dangerous and self-destructive behaviors; in-home services to families in need of education and support; foster and adoptive parenting training; "TransParenting Classes," an educational program designed to teach effective parenting during transitions of divorce or parental separation; anger management classes for teens and adults; a parent support group, which would focus on issues relating to parenting and families; and a resource library.

"We are looking for other funding to keep them (Families First Resource Centers) open," Grisoli said. "We're also hoping for something to change in the Legislature that will keep them open."

This lack of funding may also cost three or four jobs in the Hancock County FFRC, but Grisoli said families will be the most affected.

"If we have to close the doors to the Families First Resource Center, families won't have these services," he said. "There's a great need for these type of resources in Hancock County. Nothing like this exists there."

Grisoli said the Center for the Prevention of Child Abuse receives referrals from youth court, DHS, Mental Health, schools and hospitals for its FFRC programs.

"This goes beyond a few employees and families," he said. "It really may affect the entire community."

Grisoli said concerned citizens may contact their legislator about the loss of services. The Hancock County branch of the Center for the Prevention of Child Abuse will continue to offer VOCA, an in-home program designed to assist children and their families who have been the victim of crime; and CASA, a program that seeks to be the voice of abused and neglected children in court.

Chamber's Beautification Committee promotes area cleanup set March 20

SPECIAL TO THE ECHO

The Hancock County Chamber of Commerce's Beautification Committee on Tuesday discussed the ill effects litter has on the community.

The beautification committee meets the second Tuesday 10 a.m. each month at the chamber's office and the general public is invited to attend.

Among topics discussed included, a March 20 cleanup kick-off urging businesses and residents to cleanup and spruce up their respective properties.

As a start several members agreed to visit each business on Highway 90 to urge them to use extra efforts in the removal of litter from their properties. The businesses leaders will be asked to urge encourage their employees to also clean and spruce up their residential areas.

The meeting was chaired by Betsy Ashman and Ellis C. Cuevas, chamber beautification committee co-chairmen. Ashman said, "Our community has a number of senior citizens and it would be good too, if residents offered to possibly help their neighbors who may not be able to collect litter."

"A little help from one person can go a long way, when you multiply that number by several," Ashman added. Cuevas who has been involved with the chamber's beautification committee for over 25 years said, "Litter is a serious problem, yet progress has been made over the years. It is good that more and more business owners, as well as residents realize the blithe litter gives the area."

The Zone Captains for the Fall cleanups will also be contacted also to help with the new cleanup efforts by the chamber.

A discussion was also held in regards to trying to once again participate in the telephone book recycling program in the Fall.

For further information on the Chamber's Beautification efforts, call chamber at 467-9048.

Those attending Tuesday's meeting were; Ashman, Cuevas, Lynn Bell, Heather Dubuison, Millie Usher, Robbie Merrifield, Robert Kane, Jimmy Johnson, Sally Carnly, Charles Johnson, Mickie Lagasse and Tish Williams, chamber executive director.

Hancock Holding expands into Florida

Hancock Holding Company (NASDAQ: HBHC) announced Saturday that the 104-year-old Gulf South financial services leader will open its doors in Florida's capital city, as Hancock assumes all deposit liabilities of Guaranty National Bank of Tallahassee, FL.

Hancock Holding Company - the parent company of Hancock Bank Mississippi, Hancock Bank of Louisiana, and Hancock Bank of Florida - has assets of $4.3 billion. With the transaction, Hancock acquires approximately $66.9 million in deposits from the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC) for a premium of $13.6 million, or 20 percent of acquired deposits.

The Office of the Comptroller of the Currency closed all locations of Guaranty National Bank of Tallahassee, FL, at 5 p.m. (EST) Friday, March 12, 2004. All five locations will reopen Monday, March 15, 2004, as new Hancock Bank of Florida branches, introducing Sunshine State customers to Hancock's comprehensive array of financial services.

According to Hancock executives, acquiring a banking franchise in the Florida state capital fits perfectly with Hancock's stated plan for growth throughout residential and commercial hubs bordering the Interstate 10 infrastructure from South Central Louisiana eastward to the Florida Panhandle. Hancock management said the bank's Tallahassee acquisition constitutes another significant phase in Hancock's strategic 1-10 corridor expansion, and the all-cash nature of the transaction represents reasonable, logical use of the company's capital.

"As we bring Hancock's traditions of strength, stability, integrity, and service to our Florida neighbors, we look forward to a long, prosperous relationship with the citizens of Tallahassee and the surrounding region," said Hancock Holding Company Chief Executive Officer George A. Schloegel. Forbes ranked

Tallahassee among the top 50 Best Places to Live. Home to Florida State University and Florida A&M University, Tallahassee recently earned additional recognition as the second best medium-sized college town in the country based on the city's emphasis on arts, commitment to intellectual growth, and economic growth. The metro area experienced a 33-percent population growth since 1990, with a projected 26-percent additional increase by 2020. With a median household income of $37,382 in 2000, the metropolitan area maintains a relatively low unemployment rate (2.9 percent).

Schloegel said Hancock's senior officers are completing plans to ensure smooth transitions for customers as well as employees at the five Tallahassee locations.

"While we offer customers the comprehensive resources of a large regional financial services company, we also subscribe to a strong community banking philosophy of convenient, personalized service. Retaining local financial services experts with a vested interest in the success of their hometowns has been integral to Hancock's success since 1899," he added.

Founded on October 9, 1899, Hancock Bank ranks among the top 4.6 percent of America's financial institutions for financial strength and stability, according to Veribanc, Inc., and has received a BauerFinancial, Inc. five-star superior rating (the highest rating possible) for the past 36 consecutive quarters. Hancock Bank operates 102 full-service offices and more than 140 automated teller machines in South Mississippi and Louisiana as well as subsidiaries Hancock Investment Services, Inc., Hancock Insurance Agency, Hancock Mortgage Corporation, Magna Insurance Company, and Harrison Finance Company. Additional corporate information and on-line banking and bill pay services are available at www.hancockbank.com.

Chamber kicks-off clean-up efforts

Take Pride. Take Responsibility. Take Action. This is the charge this spring to fight litter in Hancock County. Volunteers from the Hancock Chamber Beautification Committee will contact businesses throughout Hancock County from March through May to ask them to focus on clean-up in and around their businesses; and, to encourage them to ask their employees to focus on clean-up activities at and around their residences.

The local effort is part of the Great American Cleanup, a partnership with the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce, the elected Officials of Hancock County, the Mississippi Department of Transportation (MDOT) and the Keep Mississippi Beautiful Commission (KAB). This event is the nation's largest annual community improvement program, involving more than 2.3 million volunteers in 14,000 communities throughout the U.S.

"The Great American Cleanup is a powerful catalyst for changing behaviors and educating people on the importance of taking care of communities through volunteer participation," said Ellis C. Cuevas, Chairman of the Chamber Beautification Committee.

"Our goal is to transform Hancock County into a cleaner, healthier and safer community," said Betsy Ashman, co-chair of the Committee. "This is something, we believe, everyone deserves."

Last year, 530 cities and counties participated in the Great American Cleanup in Mississippi with the help of MDOT and KAB. More than 3.2 million pounds of litter were collected. The cost savings to the state in terms of litter removal was $874,000. For more information about MDOT anti-litter activities, log on to www.goMDOT.com.

Keep America Beautiful, Inc. is a national nonprofit community improvement and public education organization that forms partnerships to engage individuals to take greater responsibility for improving their community environments. For more information go on line to www.kab.org.

The Hancock Chamber is a voluntary organization of 800 business, community and governmental leaders representing close to 5,000 employees. The mission of the Chamber is to promote the social, civic and economic well being of Hancock County. For more information, contact: 228-467-9048 or go on line to: www.hancockchamber.org.

Diamondhead celebrates Mardi Gras

BY RENE DUFFOUR
The twenty-ninth Annual Krewe of Diamondhead Mardi Gras Ball was held on February 14, 2004 in the Diamondhead Country Club.

King Ed Gross and Queen Art Allen greeted their Royal Subjects in fine fashion with the queen adorned in a beautiful gown.

The King was assisted by his Royal Dukes: Ted McCabe, Mario Feola, Bob Lewis, and Jim Frisina.

On hand to assist Queen Marta Allen were Maids Helen Eckert, Janet Lewis, Neal Hall, and Beverly Bruce.

Music for the occasion was furnished by Frankie Mann and his orchestra.

In line with the theme "Famous Lovers", decorations were handled by Pat Sheehy and her committee of several hardworking ladies and men.

The tableau was directed by Helen Eckert and was assisted by June Duffour.

After the tableau dinner was served and the royal subjects danced out the rest of the evening.

A good time was had by this fun-loving group and we'll give you an update on the Krewe's Day at the Races and the Krewe of Diamondhead Parade later.

Stella has been doing the driving more and more lately.

It really started with her driving when we went out at night. In the last few years, I've began losing my night vision and her being behind the wheel meant we arrived at wherever we were going in a little better mood than if I had been driving. It's not that I can't see to drive at night; it's more of having to strain to see.

Slowly this has spread to her doing a lot of the driving during the day. In this case, it's not really being unable to see but just pure laziness on my part. We've actually both shared driving rather equably in the past, but now I find myself more and more heading automatically to the passenger side.

I can use as my defense that driving has never a macho thing with me. I have never been able to see what joy there is driving an expensive sports car that can't legally go any faster than my pickup and has to use the same boring interstate highways. But the truth is really laziness. I have worked on this admitted fault for many years and have found that, with a little self-discipline, I can sit back and enjoy it.

I have found that the best thing about sitting in the passenger seat means you can look out the windows! And that looking out the windows as you drive along the Coast can be very nice.

It's nice to go along the coastal road in the early morning hours after a spring rain and see the rain clouds scurrying over the Sound. The contrast of the deepish blue, almost black, rain clouds and the slate blue, silvery smooth water make a pleasant backdrop to the drive. Now with Stella driving, I have found that I can focus on the ever-changing scene of the sky and water rather than see it as a peripheral adjunct to a

Neil Sedaka headlines Bay Magic

THE SEA COAST ECHO
Legendary singer and songwriter, Neil Sedaka will perform two shows at Casino Magic Bay St. Louis on April 23 and 24 at 9 p.m. Sedaka is known for hits like, "Breaking Up Is Hard To Do," "Calendar Girl," "Happy Birthday Sweet Sixteen," and "Laughter in the Rain," just to name a few. Tickets are available for $19.95, $24.95 and $29.95 at the Casino Magic Box Office, by calling 1-800-5-MAGIC-5 or through any Ticketmaster outlet.

It is hard to imagine the history of rock and roll without the many contributions of Neil Sedaka. For over four decades, Sedaka's timeless standards have helped change the face of popular music. With countless hit singles, and platinum and gold records, he is recognized as one of rock and pop music's legendary pioneers, and remains as vital a force today as he was when he first achieved his string of hits back in the late 1950's.

It was in 1958, at the age of eighteen, when Sedaka was catapulted into stardom after Connie Francis recorded his "Stupid Cupid." She then sang the theme song Neil had co-written for the 1960 MGM spring break classic, "Where the Boys Are," which would be her biggest hit. As a result of these hits, Sedaka was able to sign a contract with RCA as a writer and performer of his own material. Sedaka soon recorded chart toppers "The Diary," "Oh, Carol," "Stairway to Heaven," "Calendar Girl," "Little Devil," "Happy Birthday, Sweet Sixteen," "Next Door to an Angel," and "Breaking Up Is Hard To Do," songs that have become a part of peoples' lives and can instantly take listeners back to special moments. Sedaka had become a "teen idol" and flew around the world as one of the youngest performers to tour extensively. But all of this was merely the first act in a career that has not ceased to evolve and entertain.

In 1972, Sedaka re-launched his solo career with two albums, Sedaka's Back in 1974 and The Hungry Years in 1975, both became top selling albums around the world. His comeback was further heralded by two of his songs co-written with Phil Cody, "Bad Blood" and the timeless "Laughter in the Rain," reaching the #1 position on the music charts. In Rolling Stone Magazine, Sedaka was hailed as "the new phenomenon." The song "Breaking Up Is Hard To Do" was re-released as a ballad in 1975, and made music history when it reached #1 on the charts, becoming the first song recorded in two different versions by the same artist to reach the Top Ten. During this time, Sedaka also helped to launch the career of the Captain and Tennille with their version of his "Love Will Keep Us Together," which won a Grammy Award for Record of the Year for this worldwide, number one hit.

As the prolific and versatile author of more than 1,000 songs, the accolades showered on Neil Sedaka have been numerous. Among the honors he has received, Sedaka has been inducted into the Songwriter's Hall of Fame and was given a star on the Hollywood Walk of Fame. He has received numerous awards from BMI, an organization that monitors the music industry, for having written some of the most played songs on radio or television. Recently, his song "Breaking Up Is Hard To Do" was listed by BMI as one of the fifty most performed songs of the 20th century.

Sedaka has been married for forty one years to his wife, Leba, and they have two children: daughter Dara is a recording artist and vocalist for television and radio commercials, and son Marc is a successful screenwriter in Los Angeles. He and his wife, Samantha, made Neil a grandfather for the first time in January with the birth of twins, Amanda and Charlotte.

With a career spanning five decades, a rare feat in the entertainment world, Sedaka never ceases to amaze. All of these ventures will no doubt add to his legend - that of a consummate musician, an extraordinary vocalist, and an ageless songwriting talent.

Don't miss Neil Sedaka at Casino Magic Bay St. Louis, April 23 and 24! Must be 21 to attend.

THE SEA COAST ECHO

A tearful 'Good Bye, Snow Birds' for season

THE SEA COAST ECHO

Last Sunday the Lutheran Church of the Pines said good bye to their snow birds. They did it with a covered dish luncheon after the morning worship service. Approximately twenty couples from the "Frozen North" spend their winters on the Gulf Coast in Hancock County. They come from Canada, Wisconsin, Michigan, Ohio, Iowa and mostly the mid-western states. Some begin arriving in November, some later. They leave at different times, beginning in March, but by May the Snow Birds have all migrated back where they came from.

Because Lutherans are not as "plentiful" in Hancock County as they are up north, the only Lutheran church in the county is the Lutheran Church of the Pines at the intersection of Hwy 603 and Highway 90. The unique A-Frame sanctuary is filled to capacity until the Snow Birds arrive and then chairs have to be placed in the aisles. Additional parking space had to be provided to accommodate the big trucks they use to pull their trailers to the surrounding R.V. parks for the winter.

Because of Pastor John Ellerman's teaching ability as a Sunday School teacher, almost as many attend

The Lutheran Church of the Pines in Waveland bids farewell to its "snow birds" for another season.

Sunday school as the worship service that follows. Many of the snow birds claim their churches up north do not have the flavor and content they find in their southern church in Waveland.

Without exception they say at the Church of the Pines, they feel a warmth and friendliness. Though they do not move their membership from their churches up north, they are considered "associate members."

They sing in the choir, they serve on committees, help with ushering, upkeep of the building and grounds, taking of the offering and are as active as they are in their home churches. Once they have discovered the Lutheran Church of the Pines, the Snow Birds return year after year. Carol and Fred Jensen returned for ten consecutive years, and finally built a new house on Zimmerman Street and moved to Waveland permanently. The president of the congregation, Judge Arlie Asmus, his wife, Dorothy and daughter Sheryl moved from Wisconsin and now live permanently in Diamondhead.

The party was early this year so all the Snow Birds could be recognized and offered God-speed. One couple will leave this week; the others will leave weekly. One thing is certain; they will be back next fall when the north freezes over to receive a warm southern welcome at the Lutheran Church of the Pines.

 Hancock's Local Newspaper since 1892

Advertising is an investment in the success of your business. Every business has some kind of competition, either within the town, nearby city or from mail order firms. Your potential customers are being courted by your competitors. If you do not invite those customers to do business with you, they are likely to forget you and buy elsewhere. It is not uncommon for consumers to switch their trading from one store to another. Advertising helps to keep old customers and equally as important, make new ones.

Our community is constantly growing which means that potential customers are moving into the market area all the time. Advertising gives these newcomers a reason to visit your store.

Most businesses budget for their advertising expenses just as they do for other necessities such as rent, phones, etc. Smart business people realize that advertising is imperative to keep their business growing.

Another reason to advertise is that advertising is news! You profit by telling our readers what is new in your store. Through advertising, you can let a wide audience know the product lines you carry, the quality of your merchandise, the completeness of your service and the character of your store.

If you have something to sell, then you have something to advertise. When you have nothing to advertise, you are out of business. Advertising is designed to build your business and works best when it is repeated regularly. Consistent advertising pays off!

Now that you know some of the reasons to advertise, you're probably wondering how you can advertise most effectively. Surveys show that ads in local newspapers have more impact than in any other medium. The Sea Coast Echo goes into the majority of the homes in Hancock County. The Sea Coast Echo is full of interesting reading, it is a part of our community. People like to read about people and The Sea Coast Echo is full of pictures and stories about local people. The most important reason to advertise in The Sea Coast Echo is that our readers are your customers.

If you're looking for the best advertising value for your money, then you should contact the advertising department at The Sea Coast Echo. One of our advertising representatives will be happy to discuss the many advertising options offered by The Sea Coast Echo. For more information you may call 467-5474, Monday through Friday 8am to 5pm, or stop by our office at 124 Court Street, Bay St. Louis.

What is Truth?

Much-maligned Pontius Pilate, who is even more despised since the mega-success of Passion of the Christ, was not so dumb 1970-odd years ago when he asked Jesus the immortal question: "What is truth?" (John 18:38)

While the question sounded like a cop-out with regard to truth, a reality which should be completely transparent, and therefore self-evident, daily evidences tell us an entirely different story about what is really true.

First-of-all, there is the old truism: "Every story has three sides: your side, my side, and the truth."

To hear the various camps out there jockeying for the truth, your side is not valid, and objective truth is not an option, because only my side counts.

The issues and the events with their interpretations don't seem to matter. What does matter is individual passion born of personal creeds, philosophy, theology, political loyalty, social origin and, above all, camps.

Camps? Well, that is one way of labeling and describing conservatives, liberals and independents. Think about it a minute. No matter what set of facts, events or circumstances is presented, the various camps give their own spin or interpretation of it, which rarely agrees with the other camp.

Thus, we have the gnawing issue of the war in Iraq which immediately draws a chorus of nays from the left and yeas from the right. Dutifully, it almost seems, my friends and acquaintances line up like parrots or even lemmings, repeating as if by rote or cue all their mantras and talking points.

Considering the intelligence, education, maturity and general wisdom of so many countless individuals, it seems unbelievable that they could be caught up every day, every hour in the particular creeds of their camps.

And Iraq is but one of many things and issues which draw immediate fire from opposing camps. Gay marriage has become a burning issue which generates much more heat than light, and more emotion than reasoning.

To add more fuel to the fire, there is one thing I have not heard anyone mention concerning gay marriage. Marriage is not only a sacred thing, as we derive from Genesis 2:24, but a sacrament between man and woman. For us, it is not merely a legal contract, but much more a covenant with our Maker.

Is there no independent thinking which will lead to the truth in most cases? Supposedly, this is where the independents come in. However, the truth track record of independents has been nothing

Reflections on Life

by Father Jerome LeDoux, SVD

ing to write home about.

If the spectacle of passionate denial and affirmation were not dinned into us constantly in print, and on radio and TV talk shows, it would be far less puzzling and mystifying to watch and hear people in the camp of their choice go through their paces when confronted with issues and facts.

But the spectacle is everywhere. Whether we read, view or listen, there is no letup from the daily, hourly din of news, manufactured news and doctored news to which we are continuously exposed wherever we are. Spin doctors do appear to qualify well as latter-day witch doctors.

Pilate's "What is truth?" is being echoed down through the ages in every country, among all peoples and amid all the everyday and extraordinary issues and events of life. And the net result of that question is still as painful and anguishing as on that first Good Friday on Calvary's hill.

"What is truth" is trying to work its way through the WMDs (weapons of mass destruction) whose pros and cons, by this time, you have memorized.

Who knew what and when harks back to Watergate days with the same urgency, and again, is neatly divided accorded to the camps.

At the same time, who knew what and when is being applied to the 9-11 attacks and, supposedly, some critical prior intelligence which could have been used to cut off the whole dastardly operation at the pass.

Opposing camps bitterly contest "What is truth" about abortion, about euthanasia, about assisted suicide, about stem cell research and about genetic engineering which affects the origin and quality of human life.

Further, "What is truth" digs into the moral and legal intricacies of privacy concerning one's medical records, conversations with doctors and counselors, and even the seal of confession itself.

You yourself can add to this laundry list of issues and events which beg answers and practical conclusions to Pilate's "What is truth?" Gossips in particular, who abuse and extort the truth, probably do not recognize it.

And "What is truth?" in the ever-sparking ashes of priest pedophiles, and the cognate issues of atrophying priestly vocations, married bishops and clerics in 1 Timothy 3:2, and women in the sacred ministry?

If Pontius Pilate were alive today, he would pause frequently as he viewed modern life and listened to its actors. In sheer disbelief, he would mumble to himself, asking confusedly and persistently: "What is truth?"

Scripture Says . . .

By Ed Young

Cry aloud and spare not

The doctrine of a Bible Hades; the future punishment of the unrepentant wicked; is being attacked as never before.

"If hell is taught in the Bible," doubters are saying, "Why do not the preachers warn their people?"

If men and women are to be punished for their sins and lost forever, why not cry aloud and spare not?

These and like expressions are heard everywhere.

The silence of the pulpits, together with constant agitation of unbelievers, adds to the confusion and doubt of many.

But, my friend, remember that the teaching on hell is still in the Bible. Read Luke 16th Chapter, Matthew 13:42, Jude 13, Matthew 25:41, Mark 3:29.

Now, dear reader, let's understand one thing clearly; Hell was made for the devil and the fallen angels. Matthew 25:41 not for mankind.

However, you will go to this place is you reject God's love for you. And that love is His Son, Jesus Christ.

"How shall we escape if we neglect so great a salvation?" Hebrews 2:3. "Do you want God's love or His wrath?" Why not invite Jesus into your life?

The "Word" for the Week
Which way are you running?

Dennis J. Prutow • Box 303, Sterling, KS 66757

Do you consider yourself a Christian? Then you must be a follower of Christ. You must believe certain things about Christ.

You must believe that Jesus Christ, the divine Son of God, the second person of the Trinity, is Lord of all. He is Lord of lords and King of kings. The Bible says, "God has made Him both Lord and Christ" (Acts 2:36).

Not only so, you trust in Christ. You receive salvation from the consequences of sin when you sincerely bow before Christ and commit yourself to Christ as your Lord.

You trust in the Lord of glory as the one who died on the cross in payment for your sins. You truly believe that this same Lord Jesus was raised from the grave in order to give you new life. But this is not all.

You must also dedicate yourself to serving Christ as Lord. Jesus said, "Not everyone who says to me, 'Lord, Lord,' will enter the kingdom of heaven; but he who does the will of My Father" (Matthew 7:22).

The point is, you cannot confess Christ as Lord and live contrary to His will and then also say your confession of Christ is a true one. Rather, you must "prove yourselves doers of the Word, and not merely hearers who delude themselves" (James 1:22).

You see, your conduct shows which way you are running; whether you are running the race of life in the service of Christ, or whether you are running in the other direction in opposition to Christ. You cannot have it both ways. You cannot say you are a follower of Christ and live as though you are not.

It's especially nice to be a passenger going along the road and watch the pelicans. I've talked about them before and I guess I am repeating myself, but I can't help it. To me, they present an elegance of motion that is a complete joy to watch.

What is nice is that pelicans can be found anywhere along the coast, overhead in groups, en echelon, lazily riding the coastal breeze or out in the water, skimming the surface. As Stella drives us across the Bay bridge or the clear area along the beach in Pass Christian, I can sit and watch them flying impossible low over the water magically keeping pace with us as we move along.

But all this brings me to the point of what I want to say. I saw something in our drive to Biloxi last weekend that I had not really noticed before, something that I probably would not have really noticed if I had been the person driving rather than in the passenger seat looking out.

That is, the exquisite grace of our live oaks without their leaves.

Look at them the next time you drive east toward Biloxi. Better yet get someone else to drive and enjoy them uninterrupted. Unfortunately, they are not as well seen on the return to the west, as the westbound lane is too close to the trees. But from the eastbound lane...

I have lived in the north and seen the bareness of their oaks and other trees in winter. Although there is a gray beauty about the scenes presented by the dark limbs of the sleeping trees and the brown landscape, it can be a depressing, almost morbid view. We don't have the same view here. Our winters are short and the promise of spring is a delight we know is just a

The Man Behind St. Patrick's Day

Even if you aren't Irish, you can always participate in March 17th's St. Patrick's Day festivities. But it's even better to celebrate it when you know how the holiday came to be.

St. Patrick is truly one of Ireland's biggest celebrities, the patron saint and national apostle of Ireland credited with bringing Christianity to the country. Most agree that St. Patrick was born in Britain near the end of the fourth century. At 16, he was taken prisoner for more than six years by Irish raiders who attacked his family's estate. During his imprisonment, he became a devout Christian, using religion as a source of comfort.

St. Patrick escaped his imprisonment after allegedly hearing a voice telling him to leave Ireland. He then began his religious training after having another dream which told him to become a missionary. He was ordained as a priest and was sent to Ireland to convert more people to Christianity and minister to Christians living in Ireland. Patrick integrated traditional ritual into his lessons of Christianity instead of completely eliminating the Irish's religious beliefs. For example, he held bonfires at Easter because the Irish honored their gods with fire. To make the cross a part of the Irish Catholic lifestyle, he placed an image of the sun, an Irish symbol, onto the cross, creating the Celtic cross.

Legend has it that Patrick died on March 17 - hence St. Patrick's Day - around the fifth century. The Irish have held celebrations on this day for thousands of years. Irish families attended church and threw celebrations. Though it fell during Lent when Catholics were forbidden to eat meat, people still danced, drank and ate Irish bacon (corned beef) and cabbage.

Today, the holiday of St. Patrick's Day is celebrated worldwide by people of all religions. In modern Ireland, the holiday draws people from all around the world and features a multi-day celebration with parades, concerts, plays and fireworks.

Checking in with Andrew Lawrence

By Jacqueline Cutler
© Zap2it

In Disney Channel's "Going to the Mat" Friday, March 19, Andrew Lawrence plays a blind, cocky New Yorker who moves to Utah with his family. There, he plays drums and guitar, and becomes a wrestler.

"I had to learn to wrestle," Lawrence says. "It was very painful." However, Lawrence says he did not find it difficult to act as if he was blind. He does a credible job in the movie, playing a character pretty different from Ted, the obnoxious older brother on Fox's "Oliver Beene."

He followed older brothers Matthew and Joseph into acting. Lawrence has been acting since he was a toddler. He decided to quit and just hang out with his friends from sixth through ninth grades.

Now 16, Lawrence is driving, and already has a mini fleet. He has a 1969 Bronco, which he says is "the coolest car I have ever seen in my life. Oh, Lord, it's beautiful. It's charcoal and a convertible. It looks like a 'Terminator' car. I'm also getting a '69 Scout ... And, I also have a BMW."

The latter is because his mom insists on a safe ride, he sheepishly explains.

Lawrence's other passion is music. He plays classical guitar, piano, banjo, mandolin and harmonica.

He has attended regular and special schools, and in March, Lawrence plans to start at a community college to study history and literature. His goal is to transfer to UCLA.

"I just want to succeed and be happy with myself," he says. "I want to do something that I can be proud of, and that's about it. That's one of the hardest things to do in life, to really find peace and acceptance with yourself. If I can find that, I can be on my way to succeed."

Birthdate: Jan. 12, 1988,

Pets: Two large dogs; assists with Matt's menagerie.

Girlfriend: "No comment," he says. "It's a long story."

Kitchen abilities: "I make pizzas that are pretty famous with family members," he says. "I use pita bread and make my own sauce."

Favorite TV shows: "I don't really watch any television," he says. "I love the Discovery Channel and Animal Planet."

An 'Average Joe' does the picking

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

Can an "Average Joe" find lasting love the second time around?

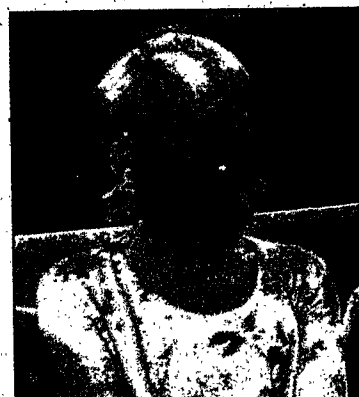

Adam Mesh is ready to give it a shot. The likable, wealthy New York day trader finished as first runner-up for the heart of ex-beauty queen Melana Scantlin, who dumped him for "hunk" Jason Peoples (with whom she reportedly has broken up since) at the end of the unscripted NBC series' first round. Now, Mesh takes control as the network debuts "Average Joe: Adam Returns" Monday, March 15.

He'll be in the same situation as Scantlin and her "Average Joe: Hawaii" successor, Larissa Meek, facing romantic prospects who encompass ordinary and not-so-ordinary-looking contenders for his affections.

Mesh admits he's surprised to be back, recalling that the show's producers asked him to "come to L.A. and hang out. When I got there, they asked how I'd feel about having my own show. I said, 'Are you serious?'"

They were, fueled by viewer support of Mesh that flooded NBC's Web site, and his own. "Lots of e-mails were even coming to my apartment," Mesh reports. "I couldn't believe the reaction I was getting, so I had a clue that something else might come out of it."

Mesh's upbeat approach to "Average Joe," even after male-model-caliber rivals were brought in halfway through the contest, has to be a big factor in his popularity. "I feel really comfortable in front of the cameras," he confirms. "When I meet people in person now, they tell me I seem more shy than on TV. This whole thing has been a 'Forrest Gump'-like experience for me. I didn't know what the first show would be like, and the fact there was a second and now a third one is like a joke. All my friends are hysterical about it."

'Century City' provides a glimpse into future

By Jacqueline Cutler
© Zap2it

"Century City," the latest courtroom drama to hit CBS, is a cross between "L.A. Law" and the "The Jetsons," with one important proviso - it's a pretty smart show.

Premiering Tuesday, March 16, it also smacks of another drama, "The West Wing," because of its bombastic speeches, but that is about the worst that can be said about it. Set in 2030, the show explores issues our society is just now beginning to tackle.

"The show will be a success if people are disturbed enough (by it) to talk about it around the water cooler," says Hector Elizondo. ("Chicago Hope"), who plays Marty Constable, the elder statesman law partner. After working on so many movies and TV series, Elizondo handicaps the odds of success for this one. "It has the smell of success," he says. "But who knows? I'm the guy who said 'Pretty Woman' would never do anything."

"Century City" works because it does not delve into science fiction, but rather uses science to project likely occurrences. Technology is a fun backdrop, but not the show's focus.

In the pilot, the lawyers represent a fertility specialist (the ageless Richard Thomas) who does not tell patients that the fetus they are carrying will grow up to be gay. His rationale is that when prospective parents know, they do not want the child. He feels if he tells them, he is aiding in the planned decimation of gays. Because so many women in the future defer motherhood, fertility specialists are even more common than they are today.

The attorneys - Lukas Gold (Joan Gruffudd, "Horatio Hornblower"), an earnest associate; Tom Montero (Nestor Carbonell, "Suddenly Susan"), a former congressman; Lee May Bristol (Kristin Lehman, "Judging Amy"), a genetically engineered human; Darwin McNeil (Eric Schaeffer, "If Lucy Fell"), a libidinous sexist; Hannah Crane (Viola Davis, "Traffic"); the firm's founder; and Elizondo's character - debate the issues.

"Some things never change - what people fight over, what they go to court over, and what people want out of life," says Paul Attanasio, show creator and an executive producer. "That hasn't changed since Hammurabi."

Attanasio, who wrote "Quiz Show" and "Donnie Brasco," came up with the idea for this near-future show based on science reports in the news: "Genetic engineering, surveillance technologies, travel to Mars, artificial intelligence, cures for cancer, artificial limbs, artificial eyes." Attanasio rattles off, "It struck me that as a society we are entering a period of unprecedented change that will really affect how we think about ourselves and what we want our lives to look like. And the way we decide, as a community, is through the law. So it occurred to me that if you took a law show, which is a franchise that historically works on television, you could access that emotion. You could basically peek around the corner at stuff happening now."

Some of that stuff, such as paper-thin computer screens and hologram images zapping into rooms for virtual meetings, is easy to imagine. Others, such as the resurgence of Nehru collars, less so.

"I lobbied for the bolo tie, but I lost," Attanasio says with a laugh. "I lobbied for wide lapels. I have a picture of me and my brother with lapels that extend beyond my shoulder ... in a good breeze, you could take off."

Hector Elizondo ("Chicago Hope") portrays senior law partner Marty Constable in "Century City," a courtroom drama set in 2030 that debuts Tuesday on CBS.

The show subtly handles other projections, such as demographic changes in California, by revealing a world that does not have a white majority. Elizondo suggested to the producers that he and co-star Carbonell speak Spanish in some scenes, with English subtitles, because that will be more representative of the time.

One cast member works to suppress his accent. "I was sort of determined to play this part as an American," says Gruffudd, a native of Cardiff, Wales. Fresh off his success of playing Captain Horatio Hornblower, who bridged the 18th and 19th centuries, Gruffudd says, "I haven't actually lived in the moment. I have been living in the past or the future."

TV's 'Joan' has a soapy career history

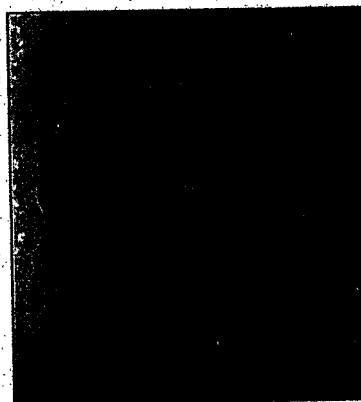

By Taylor Michaels
© Zap2it

Q Didn't the young actress who plays Joan on "Joan of Arcadia" use to play Emily Quartermaine on "General Hospital"? She is a great actress! - Mary from New City, N.Y.

A Yes, Amber Tamblyn, 20, played Emily Quartermaine on both "GH" and the ill-fated "Port Charles" before signing on to play Joan Girardi in CBS' new Friday-night hit. She also appeared in the films "The Ring," "Rebellious" and "Live Nude Girls," and made guest appearances on TV shows including "Buffy the Vampire Slayer," "Without a Trace," "CSI: Miami" and "Boston Public."

The actress, who is charming and totally unaffected by her newfound prime-time stardom, is the daughter of former screen musical star Russ Tamblyn ("West Side Story"), a fact her TV dad, Joe Mantegna, did not know when Amber auditioned with him.

As it turns out Mantegna credits the movie "West Side Story" with inspiring him to explore acting as a kid. As a special surprise, Amber brought both her dad and his "West Side" co-star George Chakiris to the "Joan of Arcadia" Christmas party, where Mantegna had his picture taken with "Riff and Bernardo," as the actors were known in the film.

Mantegna says that experience was "really very nice," but Tamblyn tells me his reaction was a little bigger.

Q "Squealed like a Britney Spears fan," she says, rolling her eyes. Isn't that the male star of Fox's "My Big Fat Obnoxious Fiance" in a Hungry Man frozen dinners commercial? - N. Laws, Jupiter, Fla.

A Yes, that's "fiance" and actor Steven Bailey getting blown away by the locker room hair dryer in that Swanson's commercial.

Q I know Jennifer Garner stays busy working on "Alias," but will there be a second "Daredevil" movie with her in it as well? - Amanda Dolber via e-mail.

A If all goes well, Garner will take top billing when she reprises her "Daredevil" character of Elektra Natchios in "Elektra," scheduled to begin filming during her summer hiatus from "Alias." The action-drama is scheduled to hit theaters in 2005.

Judith Light acts funny again as one of 'The Stones' on CBS

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

As she gets back to TV comedy work, Judith Light knows who the bosses are: the team that's also behind "Will & Grace."

The award-winning "Who's the Boss?" alumna teams with veteran comic Robert Klein to play amicably divorcing spouses in "The Stones," a new CBS sitcom from producers David Kohan, Max Mutchnick and Jenji Kohan (David's sister) that debuts Wednesday, March 17. Another "Will & Grace" stalwart, James Burrows, directed the pilot episode that finds Barbara and Stan Klein announcing their intention to split up after 25 years of marriage.

The first people to be alerted are the couple's grown children. Winston (Jay Baruchel, "Undeclared") is a socially challenged geneticist, and Karly (Lindsay Sloane, "Grosse Pointe") is a freelance photographer. They both live with their parents, who insist that despite the impending divorce, all four family members can continue to co-exist under the same roof. Some words of wisdom: Don't place your bet just yet.

"I've always loved the form," Light says of returning to sitcoms after mainly doing drama on stage and television lately. "I always thought it was wonderful to have the chance to do something funny all day, which really helps your life. It's also wonderful to give other people that kind of entertainment, the ability to laugh and maybe get away from issues and problems. Max Mutchnick and David Kohan are simply comedic geniuses, as is Robert Klein, so this is just a great team. It has that 'Who's the Boss?' kind of chemistry."

At the same time, Light realizes television's concept of "family comedy" has broadened since the days when she co-starred with Tony Danza and Alyssa Milano, and she feels "The Stones" accommodates it. "The context is the same," Light reasons, "because this is another family trying to work things out, but the content is very different. When we made 'Who's the Boss?' it was very cutting edge. You had a woman hiring a male housekeeper, so the traditional roles were switched."

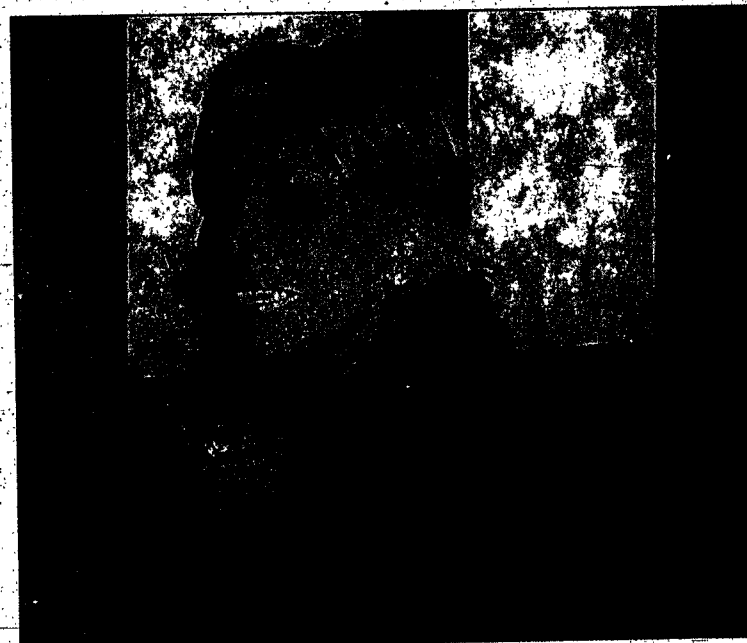

"In this, you've got four people who really love each other, and all their wackiness and craziness comes out in the show's basic dynamic. When I tell people the premise, they say, 'Oh, I know somebody who did that.' Everyone in this family is still living together though the parents are divorced; the husband expects the wife to leave, and the wife expects the husband to leave, and there everybody is stuck together."

Light actually reunites with Klein on "The Stones," since he did a guest role on "Phenom," the brief mid-'90s ABC sitcom that she followed "Who's the Boss?" with. "Whatever comes out on screen is an extension of the connection that he and I have," Light says. "He has absolutely no ego in relation to comedy. He is generous with his help in making something funnier, and open to whatever he gets from anybody. He's such a good actor in addition to just being funny. There's such a tremendous appreciation of each other's talents, it just makes for an ease in our working relationship."

Being a fan of "Will & Grace" pre-disposed Light to anything the producers offered her, but she adds, "I know Max socially, from all the work I do for AIDS and human rights. I was very nervous going into my audition because it was for my friend. I wanted to do a really good job, and Max and David and Jenji were fantastic with me. They gave me all this energy, and started directing me on how to do things differently. I love to work like that, and that's also how we work on the 'Stones' set a lot of the time."

"The Stones" originally was slated to premiere last fall, but ultimately was delayed when CBS returned the since-defunct "Becker" to the lineup sooner than expected. Light is used to such situations: "It reminded me of 'Who's the Boss?' which went through a very similar process but in reverse. That was made for midseason, then ABC said, 'No, we're going to put you in with our fall shows.' Then they put us on Thursdays against 'The Cosby Show,' and we were just dying until they moved us around and we finally found our place. I've had some experience with this, and I also have faith that things can work out."

Former "Who's the Boss?" star Judith Light returns to comedy work as a woman who divorces her husband, yet keeps the whole family together, as the series "The Stones" debuts Wednesday on CBS.

A winner of two Daytime Emmy Awards during her 1977-83 stint on ABC's venerable serial "One Life to Live," Light - the wife of actor and writer Robert Desiderio ("Knots Landing") - has made guest appearances as a bureau chief on the NBC drama "Law & Order: Special Victims Unit." Whatever happens with "The Stones," she hopes to "go back and do some more episodes" of the police series. "I was very pleased with the ones I did. I was in New York anyway doing a play at the time, so it was a great opportunity for me. I love that character and I love that show."

Makeovers and misunderstandings in 'Celeste in the City'

By Kate O'Hare
© Zap2it

With rooms, houses and people being transformed left and right on makeover programs, it was only a matter of time before a TV movie capitalized on the trend.

That time arrives Sunday, March 14, on ABC Family, with the premiere of the romantic comedy "Celeste in the City," starring Majandra Delfino ("Roswell") as a country mouse forced to turn city mouse when she moves to New York.

Bespectacled, frizzy-haired college grad Celeste Blodgett lands a job at a top newspaper, and bids farewell to her family in Maine to tackle life in the Big Apple. Soon after arriving, she's dismayed to discover that she's not a reporter after all, but a fact-checker. Also, her "great" apartment turns out to be a rat-infested dump.

The only bright spot is her neighbor Kyle (Ethan Embry), who's handsome, charming and handy around the house. He's also an interior designer, which leads naive Celeste to assume he's gay.

Before long, Celeste decides to go along with her mother's wishes and look up her cousin Dana (Nicholas Brendon, "Buffy the Vampire Slayer"). He, as it turns out, is gay, hasn't told his parents about it, and has abandoned the name-Blodgett for the more fashionable Harrison.

He introduces the dowdy Celeste to his style-conscious pals (Geoffrey Pounsett, Jamie Robinson, Deborah Gibson), who trash Celeste's look, then take her on as a makeover project - with the help of hairstyle expertise and free clothing.

At the same time, Kyle helps her put her apartment in order. But Celeste's new look doesn't immediately bring her happiness, as the assumptions she makes about people cause several romantic missteps.

Turning the pretty Delfino into the plain Celeste was no easy feat. "They put on this special lipstick that made my teeth look yellow," Delfino says, during lunch with co-star Brendon. "Then they filled in my eyebrows to make them look shapeless. They would do a certain shadowing with blush to make my face look hollow. There's a lot going on with the makeover to make it look like that."

Apparently, the effect was good enough to fool the unaware. "I went out in public and was treated rather badly," Delfino says. "Two girls about my age, early 20s, they stopped like two feet in front of me. One of them looked at the other and said, 'Oh, my God, now that is scary.' Just totally honest."

"It was so sad, because it was one of those things where they just didn't care that I could hear. I was unstylish, with frizzy hair, so I deserved to be abused. Isn't that crazy? At least it gave me something to work from for the part."

"It was really bad," Brendon says. "We call it 'The Incident.'"

Brendon had concerns of his own. "It took an hour and a half to dress me down," he quips. "I had to be there the previous Monday in order for them to make me look so bad."

"By day 18, 19 for me," he says, "I was just done. Had our trailers been closer by the set, I would have had more time to sit and relax. But when we were on set, we were there for 10, 12 hours. I was just really uncomfortable in my clothes, how tight they were. They're not what I'm used to wearing. My hair was down to here." He points to a spot in the middle of his forehead. "I had eyeliner on. I just wanted to leave."

Majandra Delfino stars as a nondescript young woman who leaves her family in Maine to work for a newspaper in New York. Her cousin and his friends transform her into a fashionable lady in the romantic comedy "Celeste in the City," premiering Sunday on ABC Family.

No team a lock for a Final Four berth

By George Dickie
© Zap2it

Got a lock for a Final Four berth? Don't bet the house on it, according to CBS' Billy Packer, because few exist these days in college basketball.

"College basketball is now in an entirely different phase from a historical perspective than it was even five years ago, and you no longer can just say, 'OK, these are the six to eight teams that are capable of getting to a Final Four,'" says Packer, who will do analysis for CBS when the NCAA tournament gets under way Thursday, March 18, and runs through the NCAA final on April 5. "In this day and age, after day one, when the No. 1 and the No. 16 games and some of the others get by the boards, there'll probably be about anywhere from four to eight games that the other team can't win in the first round. After that, every team will be capable of winning the next game."

"And so I think it's much more difficult today for teams to advance to the national championship than it was five or six years ago, because there no longer are teams that have three to four guys that are junior and senior players that are of the highest caliber. That just doesn't happen anymore. And so that makes it, for a different reason, a lot more fun to cover because of the unknowns."

Packer points to the 2002-2003 Syracuse Orangemen, which became the first unranked team in the preseason since Villanova in 1985 to win a national championship, as a perfect example. "There's a team that, a couple of years ago, would have had no shot, but they got a nice draw in the pairings as to where they were located. They got some confidence early in the tournament, got on a nice roll and before you know it ... So that definitely can repeat itself again this year. They weren't even ranked. I mean, they weren't in the top 15 (in last season's closing weeks)."

While he won't get into predictions for Final Four berths, Packer does have a few teams he expects to go deep into the tournament. One, Stanford, was undefeated at press time. "Their team is very deep," he says. "What I like about it is it has great balance, it has size, it has backcourt, it has perimeter shooting, it has outstanding individual players, well coached, a lot of experience - the kind of team that could sustain a given player not having a big game and still advance through the NCAA tournament. I think of all the teams I've seen this year, I kind of like them as much as anybody."

Another, Duke, has a solid basketball program under the guidance of coach Mike Krzyzewski, winner of three national championships. "Duke is a team, obviously, with great - not only players, but the coach that they've got now, a tremendous run in terms of believing they belong in Final Fours ... It's a team that's more versatile than the team that they had last year. It has an inside presence now with (Shelden) Williams, and Shavlik Randolph has come on a little better this year. Their perimeter game is probably deeper than anybody else's in the country. And as I said before, it's a team that expects to be at a Final Four. So that sometimes gives them an air of confidence that's difficult to handle under pressure situations in an NCAA tournament."

Another team to look for is Gonzaga, an underdog in tournaments past, but not this year, according to Packer. "I think Gonzaga this year is no longer like this Cinderella guy. You know, the basic makeup of this team are guys that have been in really great battles in the NCAA tournament. They've proven that they can win. Last year, they were inches away from advancing further with that incredible game against Arizona ... and that was an Arizona team that was experienced and extremely talented. Also having gone out on the road early in the year to test themselves against outside competition is something that'll prove to be very valuable to them, and I think that Gonzaga is a very legitimate choice to go deep in the tournament."

Packer also likes Pittsburgh. "Pittsburgh retains a lot of guys that were part of a team last year that probably could make a case that the way the pairings were set-up, I think that probably they were treated as unfairly as anybody has been in recent years. And maybe if you flip the pairings

"NBA Basketball" Sunday, March 14 (ABC, 3:30 p.m. ET): NBA head coaches have been canned this season at a rate that would make Donald Trump proud. But two bench bosses who won't hear the words "you're fired" anytime soon match wits today when Sacramento hosts San Antonio. Rick Adelman's Kings recently welcomed back Chris Webber from the injured list, which should make one the league's best teams even better. The challenge for the Spurs' Gregg Popovich is maximizing his roster to help do-it-all Tim Duncan.

"NCAA Women's Division I Basketball Tournament Selection" Sunday, March 14 (ESPN, 5 p.m. ET): Ladies before men. Prior to the field being announced for the men's NCAA basketball tournament, the 64 teams that will vie for the championship in women's basketball are unveiled, marking the 12th consecutive year ESPN has aired the selections. The network, along with ESPN2, will then provide tip-to-tip coverage of the women's tournament, beginning with Saturday's first round and culminating with the final April 6 in New Orleans.

between Syracuse and Pittsburgh, which should have been flipped, because Pittsburgh deserved to have the best road to the Final Four in terms of what they had accomplished in regular season and postseason Big East play. ... Pittsburgh is another club you'd have to give a real shot to ... going deep in the tournament."

Sunday Best Bets

7 p.m. on 6-NBC

American Dreams

After shopping for a wedding dress, Beth (Rachel Boston) has a Hawaiian rendezvous with JJ (Will Estes) that leaves their romance shattered in the new episode "Can't Hold On." Meg (Brittany Snow) finds her political awareness heightened while working at her new job, Leriny's (guest star Johnny Lewis) return unsettles Roxanne (Vanessa Lengies), Liz Phair guest stars as singer Jackie DeShannon.

7 p.m. and BRAV

Inside the Actors Studio

Initially accustomed to appearing in relatively low-budget films that earned critical acclaim if little else, Kate Winslet entered a different show-business threshold with her performance in the box-office blockbuster "Titanic." In this new episode, she tells host James Lipton of the opportunities she had afterward — and her resistance to many of them, since she remained determined to direct her career her own way.

7 p.m. on FAM

Movie: Celeste in the City

An extreme makeover is in the works for Celeste (Majandra Delfino, "Roswell"), a recent college grad who doubts her move from Maine to Manhattan in this new comedy movie. Her excitement over a newspaper job is tempered when it turns out to be less than she expected. Before she can head back home, her cousin (Nicholas Brendon, "Buffy the Vampire Slayer") and his friend (singer Deborah Gibson) try to improve Celeste's lot.

8 p.m. on 4-CBS

Movie: Family Sins

One never knows what might go on behind closed doors, as illustrated by this new, fact-inspired drama movie starring Emmy winner Kirstie Alley as a respected real-estate agent and foster parent whose real nature may be much different from what she projects. An assistant attorney general (Will Patton, "The Agency") sets out to prove allegations that the woman actually runs a criminal operation, with her children as her henchmen.

8 p.m. and DSC

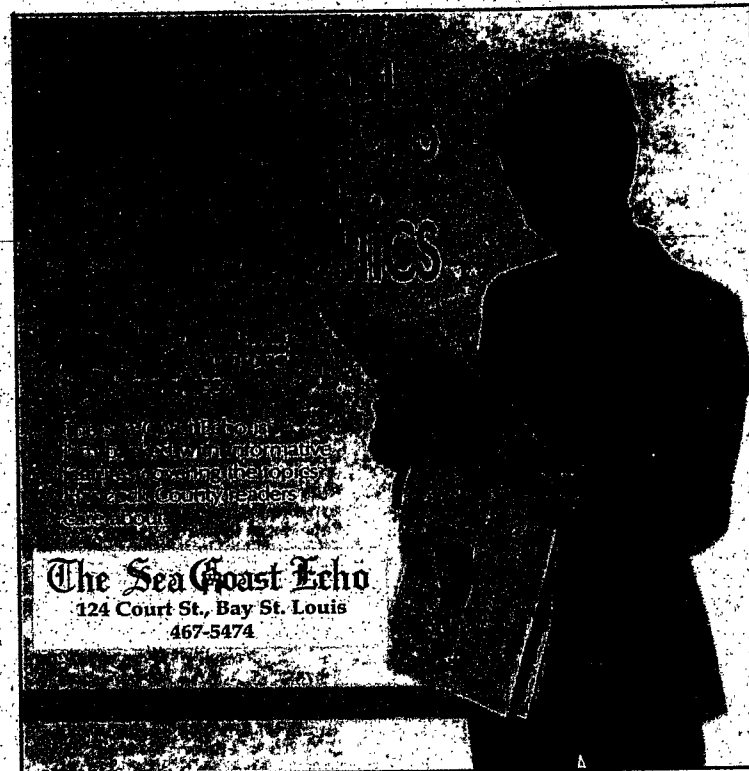

Colosseum: A Gladiator's Story

What would have made a warrior in ancient Rome enter an arena and literally fight to the death? This new hour-long special provides answers by using computer-generated visuals and dramatic re-creations to relate the true story of Verus, a slave whose combat skills earned him his freedom. The Colosseum in which he fought is visualized through highly detailed animation that recaptures the site's original glory.

8 p.m. on HBO

The Sopranos

A contractor makes a sizable contribution to Tony (James Gandolfini), who examines it for hidden meanings, in the new episode "Fat Pack." Paulie and Christopher (Tony Sirico, Michael Imperioli) share recollections that aren't too pleasant. Carmela (Edie Falco) launches a movie club. A familiar face makes a surprising switch that leaves many people stunned.

'Y&R's' Rowell and Moore reunite

By Paulette Cohn
© Zap2it

"The Young and the Restless" stars Victoria Rowell (Drucilla Winters) and Shemar Moore (ex-Malcolm Winters) again are together on screen in the upcoming thriller "Motives."

Moore stars as the young, restless and very successful Emery Simms, whose desire for excitement leads him to the brink of disaster when he becomes the main suspect in a murder investigation. Rowell portrays the detective on the case. "Motives" was scheduled for release Feb. 24 on VHS and DVD.

If you're going to be on the West Coast the weekend of March 20-21, you may join the casts of "Passions" and "Days of Our Lives" for the annual "Fan Festival 2004" at Universal Studios CityWalk at Universal City, Calif. Also on hand will be stars of Telemundo's popular telenovelas.

Among those confirmed are Galen Gering (Luis), McKenzie Westmore (Sheridan), Justin Hartley (Fox), Lindsay Korman (Theresa) and Charles Divins (Chad) from "Passions."

In other news: Jed Allan takes over the role of Edward Quartermaine in "General Hospital" from John Ingle.

Ingle moves over to "Days of Our Lives," replacing the retiring John Clarke (ex-Mickey Horton). Clarke's retirement makes Frances Reid the only original cast member left on "Days."

Dear Paulette: A few weeks ago, I was watching "Y&R," and at the end of the program there was a statement that said: In Memory of Terry Lester. I would like to know just what happened to him. I used to watch him when he played Jack Abbott and also when he played on "As the World Turns." Thank you very much. -Mary M. Wilson, Fayetteville, N.C.

Dear Reader: Terry Lester died on Nov. 28, 2003. He was 53 years old. The cause of his death was not released. In addition to the two soaps mentioned in your letter, Lester spent a year on "Santa Barbara" as Mason Capwell.

Dear Paulette: I was wondering whom Amber Tamblyn played in "General Hospital"? -Amy Garrick via the Internet

Dear Reader: Currently the star of "Joan of Arcadia," Tamblyn joined the cast of the popular soap in 1995, in the role of Emily Bowen-Quartermaine.

Hanks plays a sympathetic guard who experiences Coffey's powers, firsthand.

Tuesday Best Bets

7 p.m. and TBS

Movie: Gone in Sixty Seconds

An update of a 1974 exploitation movie, producer Jerry Bruckheimer's 2000 action tale boasts several Oscar winners — but the cars are the stars. Nicolas Cage plays a former thief who gets a big incentive to steal 50 autos in one night. His brother's (Giovanni Ribisi) life depends on it. Angelina Jolie and Robert Duvall also appear, but any and all acting efforts are over-ridden by the spectacular automobile stunts.

7:30 p.m. on 54-UPN

All of Us

Will Smith, whose marriage to Jada Pinkett Smith inspired this series, guest stars in "Jonny Comes Marching Home." He plays a recently divorced man who went to college with Robert and Neesee (Duane Martin, LisaRaye). When he moves back to Los Angeles, he takes a romantic interest in Neesee — sparking mixed reactions in Robert, her ex-husband. Smith's children, Trey and Jaden, also guest star.

8 p.m. on 5-NBC

Frasier

Frasier (Kelsey Grammer) makes a small step over to the wrong side of the law in the new episode "Coots and Ladders." Tiny as his infraction is, he ends up feeling major guilt over it, so he enlists Niles (David Hyde Pierce) to help set things straight. Discretion goes out the window when the siblings end up as the star attractions at a neighbor's surprise party.

9 p.m. on 26-ABC

NYPD Blue

A man fears his teenage daughter has been abducted in the new episode "Colonel Knowledge." The detectives also have to deal with a gang leader suspected of murder, as well as with Sgt. Gibson's (John F. O'Donohue) pet parrot, which isn't exactly silent during a day at the precinct. Lyndsy Fonseca ("The Young and the Restless") guest stars.

needs her professional help. The woman is in the early stages of Alzheimer's disease, and she fears she may lose her foster child as her bout with the illness progresses.

9 p.m. on 6-NBC

Law & Order: Special Victims Unit

The murder of a sexual re-education group's representative puts Benson and Stabler (Mariska Hargitay, Christopher Meloni) on the trail of a clergyman who sent hate mail to the victim in "Abomination." Later, their attention turns to a professor (guest star George Segal, "Just Shoot Me") who opposed a paper the ill-fated man was writing. Fred Thompson makes a crossover appearance from "Law & Order."

7:30 p.m. on 6-NBC

Happy Family

Is there something about Sara (Melanie Paxson) that the rest of her family has missed? Peter and Annie (John Larroquette, Christine Baranski) begin thinking that's the case in the new episode "Secrets." Sara's seemingly clandestine meetings with another woman lead her parents to suspect she might be gay. Todd (Jeff B. Davis) steals a shirt that Tim (Tyler Francavilla) owns, prompting Tim's revenge.

8 p.m. on 4-CBS

Century City

Law shows are nothing new to television, but setting one in the future is. A firm that often deals with legal implications of technology advances is at the heart of this drama, which revolves around matters such as genetic engineering and identity theft. Hector Elizondo, Ioan Gruffudd ("Horatio Hornblower"), Kristin Lehman and Nestor Carbonell ("Suddenly Susan") star in the series premiere.

8 p.m. and DSC

Seven Wonders of Ancient Rome

Tourists from around the globe have gazed upon legendary Italian structures such as the Pantheon and the Colosseum for ages, marveling at what must have gone into their creation. This new special spells out the details of their construction, seeking out the ancient papers and journals kept by architects and engineers as they set out to design and build some of the world's most legendary buildings.

9 p.m. on 4-CBS

Judging Amy

Award-winning actress Patty Duke guest stars in this new episode as a friend of Maxine's (Tyne Daly) who

The D.A.

The law-show genre gets another entry with the premiere of this drama series, boasting former Los Angeles District Attorney Gil Garcetti — nationally known for his role in the

Kelly Ripa

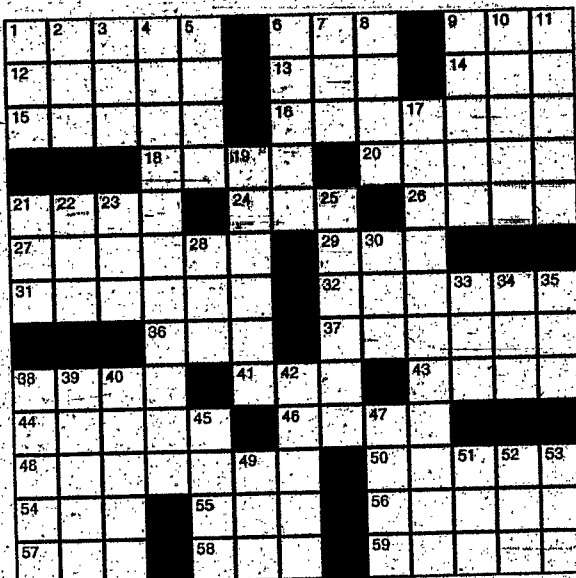

O.J. Simpson case — as a consultant. Steven Weber ("Wings") plays the district attorney of L.A., where his office is investigated for a possible information leak in "The People vs. Sergius Kovinsky." Bruno Campos and Sarah Paulson co-star.

Movie: The Wedding Singer

Adam Sandler plays a romantically unlucky wedding singer who can't seem to get a break in this 1998 comedy. After his girlfriend leaves him because he's in a dead-end job that he happens to love, his enthusiasm for his work declines. When he demonstrates kindness to a compassionate waitress (Drew Barrymore), he jures her away from her overbearing boyfriend. This is a must-see for anyone who loves, or is still stuck in, the 1980s.

7 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC

Movie: Tarzan

Tony Goldwyn ("Ghost") provides the voice of the title character in Disney's visually stunning 1999 take on Edgar Rice Burroughs' jungle hero. Shipwrecked and then orphaned, Tarzan is raised by gorillas that include Kala (voice of Glenn Close), his adoptive mom. His first encounter with humans presents him with a possible love interest named Jane (voice of Minnie Driver) and a villainous jungle guide (voice of Brian Blessed).

7 p.m. on AMC

Movie: Thelma & Louise

One of the most discussed films of 1991, director Ridley Scott's vivid "road movie" casts Susan Sarandon and Geena Davis as friends and traveling companions. They have good reasons for wanting to leave their respective pasts behind, and they blaze a distinctive trail along the way.

—right up to a memorable conclusion. Callie Khouri's screenplay earned an Oscar. Harvey Keitel and Brad Pitt co-star.

7 p.m. on HBO

Movie: Old School

Upset that their post-education lives aren't turning out as they'd hoped, three longtime friends (Luke Wilson, Will Ferrell, Vince Vaughn) establish their own college fraternity in this amusing 2003 comedy. The school's dean (Jeremy Piven) is unhappy with the crowd the guys attract, so he works overtime to get them evicted. Leah Remini ("The King of Queens") and TV talk show host Craig Kilborn co-star.

Law & Order: Special Victims Unit

Brutal hate-crime attacks on two young Arab-American women are investigated by Stabler and Benson (Christopher Meloni, Mariska Hargitay) in "Hate." Upon discovering the victims were active in trying to bridge differences among several ethnic groups, the police detectives are led to a war veteran whose lawyer (guest star Barry Bostwick) offers an unusual defense.

9:30 p.m. on HBO

Movie: Pulp Fiction

Director Quentin Tarantino's violent, much-praised drama was one of the most controversial movies of 1994. It boasts first-rate performances by John Travolta — whose career was resuscitated by the movie — and Samuel L. Jackson as hired killers who often debate life's larger issues. A parallel plot involves Bruce Willis as a corrupt boxer in trouble. Uma Thurman, Harvey Keitel, Tim Roth and Amanda Plummer co-star.

(Ratings for each film begin with a "star" rating - one star meaning "poor," four meaning "excellent" - followed by the Motion Picture Association of America rating, and then by a family-viewing guide - the key for which appears below.)

STARTING THIS WEEK (New releases):

"DR. SEUSS' THE CAT IN THE HAT": After successfully bringing a live-action version of "How the Grinch Stole Christmas" to the screen, producers Ron Howard and Brian Grazer went back to the works of Dr. Seuss in the same way for this visually clever representation of another classic children's tale. Mike Myers keeps his wisecracking approach, and puts forth some one-liners that (hopefully) will sail over the heads of many young viewers, as the title feline who takes over as baby sitter for two youngsters (Dakota Fanning, Spencer Breslin). Kelly Preston plays their mother, who is pursued by an ardent neighbor (Alec Baldwin). DVD extras: audio commentary by Baldwin and director Bo Welch; "making-of" documentary; "The Perfect Stamp," "The Real Dr. Seuss" and "Dance-Along With the Cat" featurettes; deleted scenes; outtakes.  (PG: AS, V)

"21 GRAMS": Naomi Watts was a recent Oscar nominee for this intense drama about the circumstances that draw several disparate people together. An unhappily wed mathematician (Sean Penn), a housewife (Watts) and a reformed ex-convict (Benicio Del Toro) are immersed in their separate worlds until a tragic accident links them. Watts is impressive; clearly mining her depths as a performer, but the two male leads also are excellent. Cleg DuVall and Charlotte Gainsbourg co-star. DVD extra: "making-of" documentary.  (R: AS, P, V)

"VERONICA GUERIN": In a career that has encompassed everything from "St. Elmo's Fire" to the acclaimed war drama "Tigerland," director Joel Schumacher made another unexpected and noteworthy turn with his true drama of Irish journalist Guerin, who became the target of some of the criminals she exposed through her reporting. Cate Blanchett does a fine job as the newswoman marked for death by drug kingpins whose dealings she revealed in print. Gerard McSorley and Brenda Fricker co-star. DVD extras: audio commentaries by Schumacher and screenwriter Carol Doyle; "making-of" documentary; featurette on the real Guerin; interview with producer Jerry Bruckheimer; deleted scene; photo gallery.  (R: AS, P, V)

"QUICKSAND": After a period of churning out movie after movie, Michael Keaton has been choosier in recent times, and one of his choices was this suspense tale set in Monaco. He plays a U.S. banker who goes abroad to look into an alleged money-laundering scheme. The people he investigates include a former action-movie icon (the always estimable Michael Caine). The murder of a police chief implicates the banker, who evades arrest to find his kidnapped daughter. Rade Serbedzija, Xander Berkeley ("24") and Elina Lowensohn ("Schindler's List") co-star. DVD extras: theatrical trailer; "making-of" documentary; interviews with cast members.  (R: AS, P, V)

"THE BOYS OF 2ND STREET PARK": This acclaimed documentary, which was televised by Showtime, profiles six men united by their common boyhood experiences in a working-class neighborhood in 1950s and '60s Brooklyn, N.Y. An impressive soundtrack of familiar tunes traces the subjects' lives from their early days under the basketball hoop through the turbulence of the Vietnam era and beyond. The film is directed by veteran public-relations man Dan Klores and Ron Berger, who were part of the 2nd Street Park circle themselves.  (R: AS, P)

"UNCOVERED": Before films such as "Pearl Harbor," "Serendipity" and "Underworld" confirmed her international stardom, Kate Beckinsale had a showcase role in this 1994 melodrama directed by Jim McBride ("The Big Easy"). She plays an art restorer who links a series of killings to a painting that depicts a chess game, then races time to solve the murders before she becomes the next victim. John Wood ("WarGames"), Sinead Cusack and Art Malik ("True Lies") co-star. DVD extras: theatrical trailers.  (Not rated: AS, P, V)

COMING SOON (Upcoming releases):

"GOTHIKA" (March 23): A psychiatrist (Halle Berry) finds herself trapped in an asylum after allegedly committing a murder of which she has no recollection. (R: AS, N, P, V)

"HONEY" (March 23): Jessica Alba ("Dark Angel") stars as a young dancer-choreographer who debates how far she should go to make her mark in music videos. (PG-13: AS, P)

"THE RUNDOWN" (March 23): A troubleshooter (The Rock) pursues a mobster's son (Seann William Scott), one of several people seeking a treasure in the Amazon. (PG-13: AS, P, V)

ABC courts new viewers with trial run of drama 'The D.A.'

By John Crook
© Zap2it

Steven Weber trades in his sitcom "wings" for a new dramatic challenge as ABC's new legal series "The D.A." begins a four-week run on Friday, March 19.

The drama, which skirts courtroom proceedings in favor of exploring the politically explosive goings-on inside the office of the Los Angeles district attorney, stars the former "Wings" actor as David Franks, the pragmatic and prickly young title character who faces challenges from both inside and outside his own office as he tries to build a career path to the California governorship.

As the series opens, David's office is rocked by a devastating tragedy, as a young prosecutor is murdered along with a protected witness to a complex case involving the Russian mafia.

Replacing the slain woman is idealistic young Deputy District Attorney Mark Camacho (Bruno Campos, "Jesse"), the son of an assassinated congressman, whose hide-bound principles immediately clash with David's "situational ethics." Another, older staff member, Deputy District Attorney Joe Carter (J.K. Simmons, "Law & Order"), had hoped his 25 years of service would earn him David's job; and he neither likes nor trusts his boss.

Watching David's back is Chief Deputy District Attorney Lisa Patterson (Sarah Paulson, "Down With Love"), whose interest in her married boss may exceed professional boundaries, but whose own ambition makes her more empathetic to the tough choices David faces. The jury is still out, so to speak, on new campaign consultant Jinette McMahon (Michaela Conlin, who joins the series in the second episode).

Best known for his comedy work, Weber says he relishes this opportunity to play a dramatic role that contains so many facets, some admirable, many of them not.

"I love this character, because he isn't just a two-dimensional 'hero' who says 'You're under arrest, sugar,' a lot," the actor says. "David has very interesting qualities and quirks that I thought would be fun to play, and I was right."

"David may not come up to you with a box of flowers and a Whitman's Sampler every time you see him, but he certainly has other things to recommend him. Certainly, this character does want to do good, but we're all acquainted with people in power. We all know what goes on with elected officials: They have to twist arms, make deals, and I hope we portray that in an entertaining way. I mean, it wouldn't work if David was just a bad guy."

Casting an actor with Weber's engaging personality is a shrewd move on the part of the producers, since his presence automatically makes this driven and neurotic character interesting instead of just irritating. Weber also makes a point of grabbing small, unexpected moments to reveal the decent man underneath the politician's mask, as when David reacts to Mark angrily accusing him in the premiere of seeing this murder case as "a campaign problem" instead of the human tragedy it really is.

"There's a duality to this guy and, indeed, to everybody in the office on this show," Weber explains. "David is a person who wants justice, who has maybe at one time had a relatively sentimental approach to social issues ... but over time in the 'business of justice,' he has become a hardened cynic. He's got to be a little bit of a (jerk) sometimes to try to achieve as much good as he possibly can."

"Steven is so good, and so different, in this role that part of me wants the show to continue just so more people can see what a wonderful and, I think, underappreciated actor he is," Paulson says, sounding a little like the supportive character she plays on the series.

"But I've never really played a part like this, either. I usually seem to be cast as a befuddled and lovelorn young woman who can't get her life together, and Lisa is a very big departure from all that. She is very complicated. I think she is in love with her boss, yet her ability and desire to do her job comes before all that, so she kind of breaks an old cliché."

Having former Los Angeles District Attorney Gil Garcetti on the show as a consultant has helped Paulson grasp the political minefield Lisa and her colleagues have to negotiate every day, she adds.

"Maybe this is common knowledge to those who live in the real world, as opposed to me here in the acting world of Los Angeles," she says, "but I was really not aware of how very, very political everything in the district attorney's office is. Every sort of move can be perceived as calculated to suit someone's personal agenda, and it doesn't just start and end with the DA. It's also everybody under him, to the left and right of him, everyone vying for these power positions. Gil says absolutely that all really happens in this world (the characters inhabit).

Steven Weber ("Wings") takes on a challenging dramatic role as driven Los Angeles District Attorney David Franks in "The D.A.," which begins a four-week run Friday on ABC.
